20 Killed In Second Plane Crash

FIERCE FLAMES PREVENT ANY TRY AT RESCUE

Transport Falls Into Field Near St. Thomas, Ontario, During Night.

(By Associated Press)

ST. THOMAS, Ont.—All 20 occupants of an American Airlines transport were killed last night when the big plane plowed into the earth 14 miles west of here and burst into such fierce flames that no attempt at rescue could be made.

It was the second accident within a day to befall an American air transport and the worst air disaster in Canadian history. It was the first crash of an American Airlines plane since February, 1936.

The arrow and cross on the above map indicate the spot at which a Northwest Airlines plane crashed yesterday in Minnesota killing 12 passengers, a stewardess, and co-pilot. The pilot was the only survivor of the crash which preceded another plane accident at St. Thomas, Ont., last night which claimed the lives of 20.

BUCYRUS— John Disher, 82, Upper Sandusky, was instantly killed last night when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck on U. S. Route 30N, eight miles west of here in Wyandot county.

Three others injured in the same accident are in City hospital here. They are Frank Althouse, 74, driver of the car in which Disher was a passenger; Earl Smith, 33, Cippus, Ind., driver of the truck, and Paul B. Wolfe, 35, Bluffton, Ind., who was riding with Smith.

Hospital attendants said Althouse suffered fractured ribs and internal injuries. His condition was reported as "fair." Smith sustained lacerations and bruises, and Wolfe suffered a back injury. Their conditions were reported as "good."

Details concerning probable cause of the accident were not immediately learned.

Mrs. Gibson was reported in serious condition with a possible skull fracture. Miller's wound was only slight.

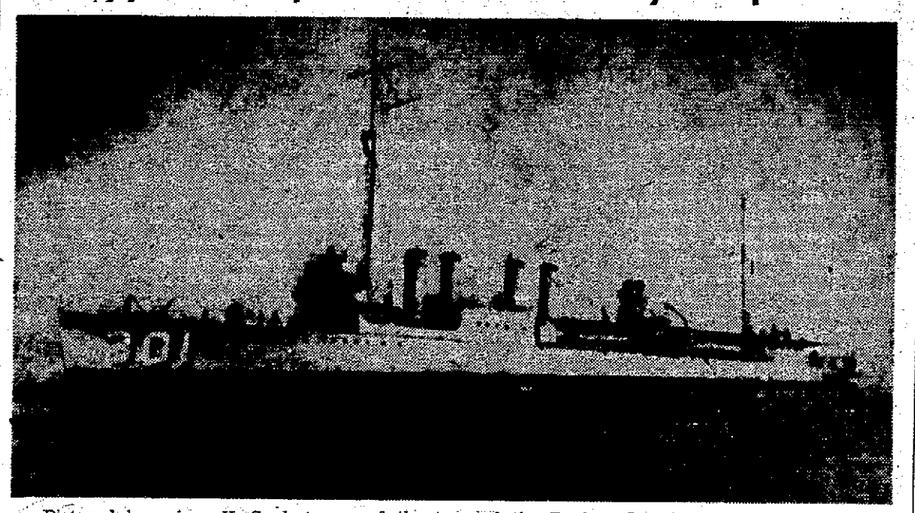
Type of Ship Sent to Bottom By Torpedo



Pictured here is a U. S. destroyer of the type of the Reuben James, sunk last night by a torpedo in North Atlantic waters, the first American naval vessel to be lost since the start of World war II. The James and the vessel shown here, are of the O-type, flush deck ships, mounting four four-inch naval rifles. Several destroyers of this type were among the 50 traded to Great Britain. The Reuben James was 314 feet long, had a 30-foot beam and displaced 1,190 tons. She carried a crew of six officers and 114 men. Fate of the crew was not known in Washington.

Retirement of City Bonds To Absorb Half Mill Up For Vote Next Tuesday.

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles explaining Mansfield's fire protection problems and showing what the passage of the proposed half mill tax levy would do to solve them.)

Passage of the proposed half mill tax levy by Mansfield voters at the polls Tuesday would give Mansfield a fire department which would provide adequate fire protection for the city's pressing needs and the needs of many years to come.

Although Mansfield is in 1941 one of the most progressive cities in Ohio, it is still served by a fire department which was antiquated even in the "roaring twenties."

Without raising their present tax rate, Mansfielders could exchange their worn out "rattletrap" fire appartus for modern efficient equipment which would more than double the safety of their homes and business places.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe has told to the Citizens Committee for Adequate Fire Protection that if the tax levy passes, Mansfield taxes would be no higher next year than this year.

Labor Problem Grows Worse, FDR Declares

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt said today that the defense-labor situation has taken a recent turn for the worse but contended that it still is better than at the outset of the rearmament program.

The president spoke at a press conference as the full defense mediation board met with Chairman William H. Davis to pick a "jury" to try the merits of John L. Lewis' demands for a union shop in captive coal mines employing 53,000 men. Lewis wants a union shop for the United Mine Workers of America (CIO), which he heads. Lewis yesterday ordered a 15-day resumption of work in the captive mines pending the mediation board's action.

Mr. Roosevelt's conference also followed by a few hours army seizure of the Air Associates plant in Bendix, N. J., on grounds that the manufacturer of vital aircraft parts was refusing to comply with an NDMB recommendation that it

Traffic Police Get Permanent Jobs, Bates Asks for 5 More

While Mansfield's traffic squad members completed their three-month trial period and were given permanent appointments today, Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced that he would ask for an additional five traffic patrolmen at the beginning of the year.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals called attention to the vast improvement in the flow of traffic through the city and stated that the present five-man squad was almost entirely responsible for it.

"Even though the city has had some of its biggest crowds during the last three months," said Boals, "the new traffic squad has been able to handle them efficiently."

Bates said that although the present squad can handle the downtown traffic congestion, parking supervision and patrol work, that the city still needed more traffic men to investigate accidents, to guard dangerous intersections and to clamp down on suburban speeders.

"We need a 24-hour traffic protection," the chief declared. "Boals has been waiting to inaugurate a complete accident investigation report which would help to clear up the dangerous traffic points. To efficiently use these reports he needs more men to give 24-hour vigilance."

Bates claimed that the parking

NAZIS SPEED DRIVE AGAINST RED CAPITAL

Russian Workers Fight Beside Army In Bloody Battles Around Tula.

(By Associated Press)

Soviet workers fought alongside Red army troops today in a bloody series of battles around Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, as the Germans stepped up the fury of their 30-day-old drive on the Soviet capital from two directions.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Adolf Hitler's high command asserted that the Russians were in full flight under the assault of German and Rumanian troops smashing into the Crimean peninsula.

Apparently heading for Russia's big Black sea naval base of Sevastopol, 100 miles across the Crimea, German flame-throwers, tanks and troops supported by strong aerial attacks were reported to have broken through the Crimea's bottleneck gateway two days ago.

Soviet dispatches gave no hint of a precipitate retreat, declaring that Red army troops and marines were counter-attacking fiercely, aided by planes of the Russian Black sea fleet.

Dispatches from Kuibyshev, auxiliary Soviet capital, said all Crimean men capable of bearing arms were being mustered to stem the Nazi onslaught.

The Crimea is strategically important both as controlling the northern waters of the Black sea and as providing a short-cut route to the Caucasus oil fields across the narrow Kerch strait.

Reuben James Goes to Bottom of Atlantic on Iceland Convoy Duty

Rescue Seen Possible Since Other Craft Were Believed Near Scene of Attack; Ship, Commissioned In 1920, Hit In Same Sea Area as Kearny.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON —The U.S.S. Reuben James, an old destroyer carrying about 120 officers and men, was sunk by a torpedo in the north Atlantic last night while convoying shipping west of Iceland.

She was the first American warship to be sunk in this war.

The first brief navy announcement today did not say how many men, if any, were lost.

The navy promised that information would be announced as soon as it is received.

The fact that the Reuben James was on convoy duty led to the supposition that several ships were in the vicinity. This might make possible the rescue of at least some of the crew. But a direct torpedo hit on a thin-skinned ship like a destroyer is almost certain to cause casualties under usual circumstances.

Announcement of the sinking followed by a few hours a German communique from Berlin saying that a destroyer had been sunk recently at some undisclosed place. That Berlin announcement did not give the nationality of the destroyer.

The Reuben James was of the same type of the 50 over-age destroyers that were traded to Britain for Atlantic bases. Fith four stacks and low decks, she presented the same silhouette. Completed in 1920, she was a 1,193-ton fighting ship armed with four four-inch guns and anti-aircraft weapons.

Lieut. Cmdr. H. L. Edwards, 35, was in command of the Reuben James.

The navy did not specify the scene of the sinking except that it was "west of Iceland."

NEW YORK—Half an hour after our naval task force dropped anchor at Iceland in late September, a small boat put-putted up to our destroyer and Lieut. Commander H. L. Edwards of the destroyer Reuben James came up the ladder.

"Well we made it," he grinned to the skipper of our craft.

Today the navy department reported that the Reuben James was gone—torpedoed in the waters off Iceland in the night of Oct. 30-31.

She was an old ship of the type given to Britain, but a gallant old ship which could hit the waters at 18 knots and ask no quarter from a heavy sea.

Like our old destroyers she was thin-skinned and vulnerable to torpedoes—unlike the sleek new Kearny which made port with a gaping hole in her side and her deck plates torn and buckled by the force of a torpedo in these same waters.

The Reuben James was crowded—probably 175 men aboard on that previous trip with a staff of about six officers.

But as on all Uncle Sam's ships they took what the navy had to offer because it was the navy and if sleep was impossible because of the slapping waves against the thin bulkhead and the tight damp bunks they didn't mind that either.

All destroyer men are philosophers, fatalists. They take what

WASHINGTON: FR Says U. S. Won't Sever Nazi Relations

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt said today he saw no possibility of severing diplomatic relations with Germany and thought there had been no change in American policy as a result of the loss of the American destroyer Reuben James, and other recent attacks on other American vessels.

The Reuben James was torpedoed and sunk last night west of Iceland. Mr. Roosevelt had no details to add to those already announced by the navy.

It was in response to a press conference question that Mr. Roosevelt said he did not think there would be any change in policy by reason of attacks on American ships. The Reuben James, he said, was simply carrying on a duty assigned to her. The navy said she was on convoy operations, in the North Atlantic when torpedoed.

Replying to another question, Mr. Roosevelt said he had not thought of the possibility of cutting off diplomatic ties with Germany which for several years have been strained severely.

Reporters pressed the chief executive for inforation whether American warships had sunk any German submarines, but Mr. Roosevelt said he would not tell even if there had been such sinkings.

He made it clear that the reason for withholding information on sinkings, if there have been an., was for the effect on the morale of crews of other Nazi undersea craft.

LONDON: British Say Sinking Signals Start of Naval War

(By United Press)

LONDON—A high authoritative British source said today that the torpedoing of the American destroyer, Reuben James, marks "the opening of Germany's indiscriminate naval warfare against the United States."

Some British quarters suggested that the sinking might galvanize United States opinion to an extent heretofore unrealized.

Unofficially, however, it was thought that the sinking might shorten the debate in the United States senate concerning the repeal of United States neutrality act prohibitions against arming merchant ships and entering war zones.

It was also thought the sinking would activate the American war production program.

Regarding the U-boat which carried out the sinking, the comment was: "We hope we sank the bloody bandit—or what is even better, that the Americans did."

Mansfield's 'Roaring Fifth' In Dilemma

Genial Fred Miller, No. 1 Democrat, Directs Ward Campaign From Sickbed.

Mansfield's "Roaring Fifth"—the ward that holds the key in most every municipal election—is in a predicament and a bad one.

Normally overwhelmingly Democratic with votes enough to swing an election to the Democratic column, the ward's No. 1 Democratic power, genial Councilman Fred Miller, is sick in bed . . so sick that he has but few callers and can't make his usual efforts to keep the ward in the Democratic column.

Political dopesters believe that if in this election the ward goes solidly Democratic, Fred M. Bushnell will go into the mayor's chair on Jan. 1. But if there is a split and the Republicans gain enough of a foothold Republican Mayor W. J. Locke will be re-elected.

Reason for this, these dopesters say, is that Democrats can take pretty much of a shellacking in the normally Republican wards, the First, Second and Third, and still win if the Fifth stays heavily Democratic. The Fourth and Sixth wards, in past elections, go either way—Democratic or Republican.

In 1939, the Fifth ward helped Mayor Locke to his first term by giving him 602 votes to 769 for Claude M. Hunter, Democrat. In 1937 it pushed Hunter to a victory by giving him 1,023 votes to 339 for Glenn Bierly, Republican. The ward split again in 1935 giving Earl A. McFarland, Republican mayoralty winner 812 votes against 967 for Democrat James F. Carrigan.

As to the election next Tuesday and the ward's ailing Democratic power, the Fifth ward is in a questionable state.

"Things have been neglected on our side (Democratic)," Councilman Miller, who is so popular

Normally overwhelmingly Democratic with votes enough to swing an election to the Democratic column, the ward's No. 1 Democratic power, genial Councilman Fred Miller, is sick in bed . . . so sick that he has but few callers and can't make his usual efforts to keep the ward in the Democratic column.

Political dopesters believe that if in this election the ward goes solidly Democratic, Fred M. Bushnell will go into the mayor's chair on Jan. 1. But if there is a split and the Republicans gain enough of a foothold Republican Mayor W. J. Locke will be re-elected.

Reason for this, these dopesters say, is that Democrats can take pretty much of a shellacking in the normally Republican wards, the First, Second and Third, and still win if the Fifth stays heavily Democratic. The Fourth and Sixth wards, in past elections, go either way—Democratic or Republican.

In 1939, the Fifth ward helped Mayor Locke to his first term by giving him 602 votes to 769 for Claude M. Hunter, Democrat. In 1937 it pushed Hunter to a victory by giving him 1,023 votes to 339 for Glenn Bierly, Republican. The ward split again in 1935 giving Earl A. McFarland, Republican mayoralty winner 812 votes against 967 for Democrat James F. Carrigan.

As to the election next Tuesday and the ward's ailing Democratic power, the Fifth ward is in a questionable state.

"Things have been neglected on our side (Democratic)," Councilman Miller, who is so popular

When You Go To the Polls

TUESDAY

We have today the type of city administration we have always wanted. Let's preserve it by returning to office the administrative leader responsible and electing those pledged to support his program.

Under Mayor

WILLIAM J. LOCKE

The city has lived within its income.

It has paid all its bills.

It has maintained and improved all essential public services on a pay-as-you-go- basis.

A Few of the Administration's Accomplishments:

PUBLIC SERVICE — Improved and maintained streets, insofar as funds have been available, and fostered project of West Fourth street overpass over B. and O. railroad through efforts of city administration in its closer relation with the state highway department.

Centralized water distribution system so that efficiency was increased at a savings of many thousands of dollars through reduced power consumed and other items of expense.

Improved sewer systems by additions, replacements, and repairs, mainly through purchase of sewer cleaning machine that has removed hundreds of tons of debris from clogged sewers. Also eliminated approximately 50 per cent of flooding of cellars and unsanitary conditions by preventing roof drainage entering sanitary sewers.

Through new franchise entered into with public service system, efficient street lighting system was maintained and consumers given substantial reduction in domestic rates.

Progress made in solving traffic problem through organization of new traffic squad. Plans started for a free parking lot in downtown district for convenience of motorists.

Civil service system fostered and encouraged, without disturbing efficiency of service.

The city has helped with money and other facilities the City Park Commission in maintaining Mansfield's beautiful parks.

CONSIDER AGAIN that these and many other things have been accomplished on a pay-as-you-go basis.

WHY NOT CONTINUE A GOOD ADMINISTRATION?

The Richland County Republican Executive Committee,
RALPH M. HARDY, Chairman

Who's throwing the party?

NOBODY—IT'S JUST LUNCH TIME AT RICHMAN BROTHERS' FACTORY

DANCING in a factory? "Sure", says the Richman Family of Tailors. "We work together—why not play together?"

Yes, the Richman Family is different. There isn't another group of workers like it in the men's clothing industry.

They number about 2,500, and most of 'em own stock in the business. There's no "employees' entrance"—and no brass hats in the front office. Executives are just workers, like the rest of the Richman Family.

When you add up these facts, it's not hard to see why this group of tailors turns out such remarkably fine clothes, at such low prices. They put more than their skilled hands into their work. Heart and soul and pride go in, too—and you get the benefit.

U. S. Destroyer Sunk, Fate of 120 Unknown

Torpedo Hits Reuben James In Waters Of North Atlantic West of Iceland; Craft Was on Convoy Duty.

This placed it in the same general area as the German attack on the U. S. S. Kearny, a new destroyer that was torpedoed and severely damaged on Oct. 17 with loss of 11 of her men. It was also in that area that the destroyer U. S. S. Greer had an engagement with a submarine on Sept. 4 in which both sides missed.

The Kearny, although virtually cut in two and her forward boiler room open, succeeded in making 400 miles to port.

President Roosevelt on Sept. 11 announced he had given the navy orders to shoot Axis warships on sight in American defensive waters, including the route to Iceland. Those orders followed the attack on the destroyer Greer in daylight on Sept. 4. Engaged in trailing a submarine, the Greer dodged torpedoes and then counter-attacked with depth charges.

The text of the navy's announcement said:

"The navy department announced that the U. S. destroyer Reuben James was sunk by a torpedo during the night of Oct. 30-31 while convoying in the North Atlantic north of Iceland.

"The commanding officer is Lieut. Comm. H. L. Edwards, U. S. navy.

"No further details are available at this time, but will be released when received."

It was the third American destroyer, however, to be fired upon by submarines in the North Atlantic. The U. S. S. Greer, which had been trailing a German submarine, was fired upon Sept. 4 but the torpedoes missed.

On the night of Oct. 16-17, the U. S. S. Kearny, a new 1,730 ton destroyer, was torpedoed and severely damaged by a German submarine with the loss of 11 lives.

The Kearny, despite a gaping hole in the starboard side, was able to limp 400 miles into port.

This attack occurred when the Kearny left its own convoy to go to the aid of another convoy that was being attacked by several German U-boats. The Kearny dropped depth bombs, and afterward the U-boat fired three torpedoes, one of them hitting.

In addition to the destroyer Reuben James, 11 American-owned merchant ships, carrying the United States or other flags, have been sunk during the current war.

The Reuben James was one of the old type destroyers built at the end of the World war and commissioned Sept. 24, 1920.

She was 314 feet long with a beam of 30 feet and a displacement of 1,190 tons. She was armed with four four-inch naval rifles and a battery of anti-aircraft guns.

The ship was named in honor of Reuben James, a boatswain's mate in the U. S. navy, who took part in the war against the Barbary coast pirates and saved the life of Captain Stephen Decatur by interposing his body between that of his commander and the scimitar of a pirate while engaged in a battle with pirate gunboats. James also went into harbor when the American forces boarded and destroyed the frigate Philadelphia which had fallen into the hands of the corsairs.

A destroyer of the Reuben James type usually carries 120 men including six officers, if at full strength. The Kearny, a larger craft, had 190 officers and men aboard.

Edwards, the commander, is a native of San Saba, Tex. He is 35 years old, graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1926, and had served aboard various ships and submarines on the U. S. fleet. He took over command of the Reuben James April 6, 1940.

Torpedoing Causes Profound Concern In Washington

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sinking of the U. S. destroyer Reuben James caused profound concern in congress today, but administration senators generally said the sinking is not in itself a cause for war.

Non-interventionists asserted that sinkings must be expected as long as the United States is engaged in convoying munitions in dangerous waters. Comment included:

Sen. Thomas (D.) Uath: "It is unfortunate. I think, however, it is the sort of incident that we are to expect and I trust that it will be handled as an incident, and not viewed emotionally in itself as a cause of war."

Sen. Truman (D.) Mo.: "When we are in a war zone we can expect these things."

Sen. Adams (D.) Colo.: "This is not anything to be startled about. Orders have been given to shoot everything on sight. Under such conditions you can't expect not to be shot at."

Sen. Capper (R.) Kans.: "This is bad and I suppose there will be more talk about us getting into war. I would not think this is any immediate cause for war."

Sen. Lucas (D.) Ill.: "It's another bit of evidence that definitely shows the well-laid terroristic scheme of Hitler to drive every ship off the sea lanes."

Sen. Nye (R.) N. D.: "You can't go into a barroom where a general brawl is going on without being hit."

Rep. Thomas Ford (D.) Cal.: "We should now throw overboard all this talk about neutrality and really go to it. If you issue shooting orders you're going to get hit and hit others."

Rep. Gore (D.) Tenn.: "We should, if possible, double the number of our fighting naval craft in that area and shoot the gizzard out of every enemy craft which can be found."

Rep. Thill (R.) Wis.: "These incidents are to be expected now that the president has ordered the navy into a shooting war. I hope the American people will restrain their emotion and not be catapulated into another foreign war."

Traffic Police Get Permanent Jobs, Bates Asks for 5 More

meter receipts supply plenty of money to hire the additional patrolman. "Why we're paying the salaries of ten policemen out of the receipts at present," he said. "The only change would be that the ten men would all be traffic men."

The chief said that regular funds should be set up for policemen on other details such as criminal investigation and property protection.

Bates said he had loaned three men to the traffic squad but had already been forced to recall one of them for special sabotage and espionage investigation. The other two would have to be recalled at the end of the year, he said.

The police chief said that the regular department's duties were expanding daily, especially because of national defense needs.

Receiving their permanent appointments today were Richard Hecht, Robert Robnolte, Arthur Conrady, Robert Garver and Roeliff Hout.

Eight grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Monday at the McQuate funeral home with Rev. J. C. Campbell of Cleveland officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery at Plymouth.

NAZIS SPEED DRIVE AGAINST RED CAPITAL

Russian Workers Fight Beside Army In Bloody Battles Around Tula.

Germans were hammering violently at Soviet Gen. Gregory Zhukov's Red army defenders from the Tula sector in the south and the Volokolamsk region, 65 miles northwest of the capital.

"Sanguinary battles are being waged for every town and village at the approaches to Tula," a Soviet war bulletin said.

"All attacks by the German Fascist troops on our positions were beaten off with heavy losses to the enemy."

Military advices reaching London, however, said the Germans had captured Volokolasmk after bitter fighting in which the town changed hands three times in three days.

Tula is a munitions and iron-working city of 200,000 population in the broad valley of the Upa river.

Hard-riding Soviet cavalrymen were now reported playing a prominent role in the struggle, possibly for the sake of mobility over mud-bogged battlefields or because of a depletion of tanks.

Russian front-line dispatches declared that Red horsemen had wiped out two Nazi regiments in a battle for a southern front town, while in another Ukraine sector a Soviet cavalry charge was credited with hurling the Germans back across a river after they had advanced two miles under cover of fog.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters stressed the southern campaign, reporting that Axis armies driving into the Donets river industrial basin were continuing to gain ground.

The Russians admitted the gravity of the situation around Rostov-on-Don, but asserted that outnumbered Soviet troops were fighting stubbornly and that one settlement had changed hands three times. London advices said the Germans were moving up heavy reinforcements for a concerted attack on that Don river port, gateway to the Caucasus.

Far to the north, the German high command said that repeated Soviet attempts to break through Nazi siege lines before Leningrad had been smashed and that German artillery had scored destructive blows on military objectives inside the old czarist capital.

The Berlin radio said German bombers in recent night raids had military targets near the Kremlin and set them afire.

Presumably, under the Soviet leap-frog policy of withdrawal, the Russians have removed from Tula the rifle-making factories which are successors of the gun works established there in 1595 by Czar Boris Godunov.

Bad weather kept the RAF grounded last night, but while Germany thus was spared any attacks the German air force made some small sorties against scattered points in England.

The Japan Times and Advertiser, controlled by the Japanese foreign office, said the United States and Japan could start a snowball of peace rolling "by a display of strength through tolerance and concession."

Germany and Britain are committed to battle on, the newspaper said, and the United States, Soviet Russia and China were unable to make overtures because they would be interpreted as weakness.

"Japan," it summed up, "is the only great power able to utilize any American readiness for peace by employing an initial United States peace policy to the best advantage everywhere in the wide world."

Claim 9 British Ships Destroyed.

BERLIN—(INS)—Six British merchant ships, a destroyer and two patrol boats have been sunk by German submarines in the past few days, the German high command announced today.

A British torpedo boat was declared to have been heavily damaged.

The merchant ships sent to the bottom totalled 27,000 tons, according to the announcement.

City's Halloween Minus Parade, to Be a 'Quiet' One young people at the citadel at 8 p. m. Games, prizes and Halloween refreshments are in store for the guests, according to Adjt. Paul Hoffman.

Midnight theater parties will be held at both Madison and Park theaters with Clifford's Spooks taking over the Madison for a "ghost party." This chill-show promising table risings, spirit writings and ghostly rappings, begins at 12 midnight and no children will be admitted. A picture, "Strangers of the Evening," is also on the bill.

The Park theater will continue its regular screen program through the midnight performance. Walt Disney's "The Reluctant Dragon," and Tim Holt in "Robbers of the Range," top the bill.

The Halloween spirit prevaded five Mansfield and Richland county institutions today through the thoughtfulness of Richland county's Junior Red Cross which made 300 favors for table trays tonight.

Meanwhile Mansfield and Richland county authorities doubled precautions to prevent acts of vandalism on the part of celebrators who might grow too enthusiastic.

Additional patrolmen will be detailed for duty today and cruisers will be on the look-out for acts of vandalism. Both Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and Police Chief Meade K. Bates warned that "any pranks involving property damage would result in punishment."

Two Mansfielders reported that fodder piled in the Upper Lucas road southeast of the city resulted in a collision of their cars, damaging both machines. Lewis Meyer, 69 State street, told officers he stopped to remove the fodder, when a car driven by Harold Rapp, 227 Hedges street, ran into the fodder and Meyer's car.

Gail Hammett, custodian at the Union Rural high school in Weller township, said pranksters broke a number of windows in the school building last night. There was no estimate of the damage.

'ROARING FIFTH' FACES DILEMMA

Genial Fred Miller, No. 1 Democrat, Directs Drive From Sickbed.

in the ward that he has no opponent for election this year, said yesterday from his sickbed.

"I've been out of the picture seven or eight weeks," he continued as he tried to be a courteous host despite the fact that he didn't feel much like raising his head from his pillow.

He was referring to an unexpected illness that landed him in a Columbus hospital and from which he was dismissed only two weeks ago.

"I don't know what the outcome is going to be," he added. "The whole thing is so disorganized, it might cost us the election."

The man whose family ordinarily sees little of him around election time because he is so busy campaigning said that he did "some telephoning" when he first came home from the hospital but that there was a limit to his strength. "Monday, they put me to bed with a high fever," he complained, adding "It's just a bad cold, the doctor thinks."

Despite his illness the former shoemaker who came to Mansfield 32 years ago from Yugoslavia is still doing all a sick man can do to get out the vote in his ward. Just yesterday he told a political conferee he was "going to get somebody to work in precincts A, D and E," and asked that workers be obtained for the remaining precincts.

One thing Miller is going to miss this year is the big party held at his Orange street restaurant-tavern the night before election. These pre-election gatherings attended by between 500 and 1,000 people from all over the city and some parts of the county have become almost traditional events since the councilman came into office 10 years ago.

"I just can't plan for it this year," Miller said, indicating that about the best he could do in the way of an election celebration would be to cast his vote at the polls next Tuesday.

DEFENSE-LABOR PROBLEM WORSE

Roosevelt Admits Slow-Down But Says 'It's Not So Bad as It Was Once.'

reinstate a small number of men who recently went out on strike.

The president refused to discuss his reported plans to ask congress for legislation to give him greater powers to prevent strike delays in vital defense industries.

Without referring specifically to the captive coal mine dispute or last night's seizure of the Air Associates plant at Bendix, N. J., the president generalized that the situation was not so bad, but that it could and had been worse.

"Speaking generally, is the strike situation better or worse?" a reporter inquired.

It is not as bad as it was at one time, replied the president, but it is worse than it was recently.

He explained that he had no up-to-the-minute figures on the extent to which defense production may have been slowed by labor controversies and therefore he was unable to speak specifically.

But he did agree that in some specific instances there had been a considerable slowing down as a result of labor stalemates.

LEVY WILL NOT HIKE TAX TOTAL

Retirement of City Bonds To Absorb Half Mill Up For Vote Next Tuesday.

will reduce taxes one-half mill which would offset the increase of the levy. The proposed levy would amount to five cents for each hundred dollars of valuation for a period of five years. For instance, the levy on a $5,000 home would be $2.50 per year.

By maintaining the same tax level the Mansfield tax figure will still be below those for other Ohio cities. Including the fire levy, Mansfield's tax rate would be 16 mills.

Other Ohio cities have the following tax rates: Akron, 31 mills; Berea, 27; Dayton, 23; Portsmouth, 21.70; Lima, 21; Norwalk, 20.10; Delaware, 20; Niles, 19.60; Kenton, 18.80; Youngstown, 18.20; Van Wert, 18; and Bucyrus, 17.30.

In return for the levy, Mansfielders would receive about $27,000 annually to apply toward the betterment of its fire protection facilities.

Of the $135,000 which would be collected in five years, $65,880 would be used to purchase new fire apparatus and equipment; $10,800 for the remodeling of Station No. 1; $4,320 for the remodeling of Station No. 4; $27,000 for the construction of a new fire station; and $27,000 for the improvement of the fire signal system.

Just how would this money be used? How vital is the need?

Each division of the levy fund has been made with the intention of bringing Mansfield's antiquated department up to modern standards.

Consider for instance, the first amount, $65,880. Taken by itself, it could only rebuild about 20 homes which might be destroyed by fire in the next five years.

But probably more than 20 homes would be destroyed in that time, not to mention the hundreds of minor blazes which would cause thousands of dollars worth of damage, the possible loss of lives in any of these fires, the destruction of industrial plants and the loss of employment for persons in those plants.

Spent for modernizing the fire department, however, that $65,880 would buy a new aerial truck to replace the 22 year-old one now in service. The ladder on a sister aerial truck, purchased from the same company in the same year, collapsed in Canton a few years ago carrying a fireman to his death.

The equipment fund would also purchase a new pumper to replace the old White truck, also purchased in 1919. A pumper that no longer pumps, that's how firemen describe it.

Also to be replaced are two 18-year-old Packards which are "just worn out." They were purchased in 1923 and had bodies from two old Seagraves abandoned eight years before placed on them.

The other two trucks, the three-year-old Mack and the 12-year-old American La France are not in such bad shape.

The other four trucks, however, have been kept together with repair parts found in junk yards.

In addition to the apparatus, new hose is needed. Because the firemen do not have auxiliary hose to use while that used in a fire is drying, most of the hose has been reeled up still damp and as a result has been weakened from mildew. Mansfield now has an adequate water supply for fire fighting but needs hose which can handle the water's pressure safely.

Members of the Citizens Committee are urging all voters to vote YES—for the tax levy—on November 4. A majority will not pass the levy, 65 per cent of the voters must approve it.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1941.

At last reports Australia wasn't offering Harry Bridges any inducement to return voluntarily.

Even if Great Britain decides on an invasion it's not likely an advance announcement will be made.

Toledo Blade observation: "Small town politics is simpler. The average citizen usually knows a few candidates well enough to vote against them."

Lewis Concedes 17-Day Truce

ACTION by John L. Lewis in calling off the strike of 53,000 miners, which held up vitally important coal production for four days, scarcely merits designation as a "broad and co-operative attitude" although that expression was used by Myron C. Taylor, former board chairman of the United States Steel corporation, after Lewis agreed to permit striking miners to return to work UNTIL NOVEMBER 15, pending mediation board action.

Mr. Taylor said he was "very much gratified by the broad and co-operative attitude which Mr. Lewis had displayed in a difficult situation in time of great national peril."

As the matter now stands, it is NOVEMBER 15 that Mr. Lewis fixes as the deadline by which time government and mine owners must accede to his wishes if further obstruction of the national defense program is to be avoided.

Thus far, it is estimated, the 53,000 striking miners lost approximately $1,484,000 in wages—without having gained the only point in controversy—a closed shop—which would make union membership compulsory.

Under the present arrangement the 11-man defense mediation board is to immediately reconsider the point in dispute, with neither side bound to acceptance of the board's recommendation.

Whatever the final outcome, it is interesting to note that a recent cross-section public opinion poll, covering all parts of the United States, showed a 6 to 1 sentiment against closed shop compulsion, with expression of belief that enforced union membership conflicts with the principle of individual freedom guaranteed under the Constitution, and that the closed shop "takes away equality of opportunity between union members and non-union members."

Interference with defense production by strikes, jurisdictional squabbles, revelation of racketeering by some union organizers and self-styled "leaders," and such flaunting of authority as has just been indulged in by John L. Lewis, have tended to alienate what had apparently been majority support of worthy purposes of organized labor's self-protective minority group.

It may be hoped that the fine gains which American workers have legitimately made through the past half century—to an eminence above workers in any other country in the world—will not be lost, or further jeopardized, through lack of wise leadership, or through conduct of which a majority of Americans cannot approve.

Panorama of Mercantile Mansfield

TODAY AND TOMORROW have been designated as Value Days by leading Mansfield merchants, whose advertising in yesterday's and today's News-Journal directs attention to the vast range of seasonable merchandise now in readiness for the people of this city and vicinity—and throughout this entire north-central Ohio trading area.

This is a good time to buy, as October merges into November and complete stocks await your selection—including some items that cannot be duplicated at present prices.

A careful reading of the advertisements in yesterday's and today's News-Journal will not only give you a very complete list of Mansfield merchants who invite your patronage—with information about the merchandise in their stores—but it will also provide you with a splendid panorama of mercantile Mansfield—that essential part of every progressive city and one which accurately reflects the spirit of the community.

Mansfield has been fortunate, for a half century or more, in the enterprise and intelligence of its retail merchandisers, who have contributed much to the growth and prosperity of this city and have been instrumental in expanding trading territory, as well as providing exceptional service to residents of Mansfield and immediate vicinity.

Alert merchants, through recognition of the value of newspaper advertising, have also made it possible to provide steadily increasing facilities for the production of a daily newspaper designed to creditably represent this city and its varied activities.

The News-Journal is glad to serve its more than 21,000 subscribers—and is also glad for the opportunity of carrying the advertising messages of Mansfield's progressive merchants to its readers.

Big Job Ahead for Ice-Breakers

THAT old expression about "cutting a lot of ice" will apply well, during the coming winter, to ice-breakers on the Great Lakes, through which nearly all the iron being poured into the big war effort, almost 100,000,000 tons a year now, is ferried down from the Minnesota and northern Michigan mines.

It is more than ever fortunate that millions of years ago Providence should have deposited such vast quantities of iron rust, like so much "red dirt," in those tremendous Minnesota caches, where they can be scooped out with huge steam shovels so easily. It is no less providential that Lake Superior, the top of the Great Lakes system, is right at hand to float the ore so cheaply down to Lake Erie, for reduction and manufacture. Never in human history has there been elsewhere such a store of basic war stuff so readily available for use in a human crisis.

Usually the upper lakes are frozen in December and remain so for three or four months. But a greater effort will be made than ever before to keep the channels open and the red dirt flowing in an endless line of freight ships toward southern Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania, for quick change to steel—and then into munitions to be ferried across the sea.

It is estimated that ninety million Americans are on the wrong diet—but surely ninety million Americans can't be wrong . . . that's more than it took to break the third term precedent.

Joe Louis wishes it to be understood that he should not be confused with John Lewis—similarity being confined entirely to the names.

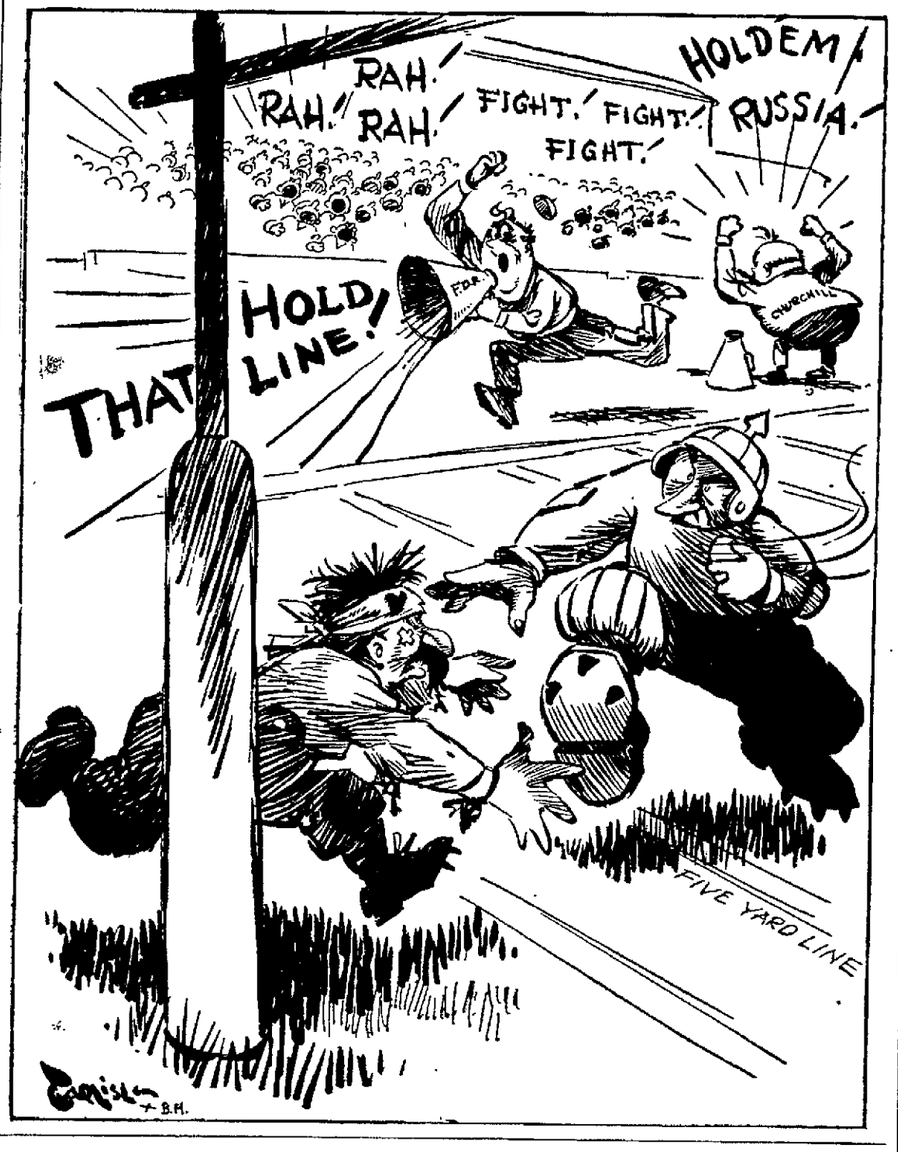
IF MORAL SUPPORT WILL WIN A WAR



May Substitute Silver for Copper

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Ever put a silver teaspoon in a glass when you were going to pour hot water in it? So the glass wouldn't crack?

A copper spoon would have done almost as well. Both silver and copper are excellent conductors of heat—and of electricity.

But there is a shortage of copper for national defense purposes. So in the interest of national defense it is now being proposed to use silver instead of copper for a good many purposes, one of which is bars in power houses.

No one has ever thought of doing it before, for obvious reasons. Copper sells around 13 cents a pound. Silver is worth more than 40 cents an ounce.

BUT we have plenty of silver, more than we know what to do with. It is a drug on the market. It is worse than that. It is a political problem, with an active bloc in Congress declaring the government MUST put the price of silver up so the mine owners and mine workers in their states can have prosperity.

Nobody WANTS the silver they are mining—not enough to pay what it costs to dig it out—plus a profit. But the government has been paying a bonus price on domestically-mined silver ever since 1933.

Once it has bought the silver the government cannot SELL it again. That would tend to push the price of silver down, and the silver state politicians would never stand for that. So the government has been holding the silver, holding it at great expense. Not only is there the loss of interest on the money so invested, but the cost of storage space—and guards. Thieves like silver.

So, looking around for a substitute for copper, some government dollar a year man suddenly wondered about silver. They could BORROW it from the government, and use it in place of copper. When the emergency is over, it could be returned to the government again, with no harm done worth mentioning.

BY THAT time, with peace here again, copper can be brought cheaply from Chile and South Africa if we are unable to supply our needs with domestic production. At present we need every available ship to carry war supplies to Britain and Russia. We will continue to need every ship that can be spared and built, so long as the war lasts. We can spare no ships for hauling copper that long trip up across the equator.

"But people will steal the silver from defense plants," one government official protested, when the idea was broached.

"The first place we plan to use silver is for bars in power plants," said a defense dollar a year man, smiling. "If anybody puts a hand on THAT silver it will just be too bad. Certainly the government will be put to no expense trying to convict him, though it may have to bury him."

To the outsider, flabbergasted for eight years by the hundreds of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money "invested" by the government in unwanted silver, this looks like it would be the first intelligent development with respect to the white metal.

Go In Debt!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE'RE beginning to face hard times—and we'll be facing far harder ones. There'll be a lot of complaining. We'd just begun to hope that the bad breaks were behind us and that we could have, at last, some of the small luxuries we'd counted on for years.

Not wildly extravagant things—just some of the beauty and adventure which seemed to grease the wheels for other lives. We wanted to travel . . . buy a few books . . . build a fireplace, perhaps . . . have a patch of garden.

And now we'll have to kiss our dreams good-bye. Crawl back into the old rut . . . take up the dreary round of chores that always took the heart out of us. We'll have to save . . . pinch every penny.

Well, there's nothing new about that for most of us. We've been through it before . . . we can do it again. But it gets your goat . . . turns you sour . . . And every time I have to do it, I think of something my father used to say. An amazing thing for any man to say but particularly so for him. For my father was poor, with a great, noisy batch of children on his hands and grand dreams for their future.

For his own future, he could have only meager hopes. He was ill, suffering greatly most of his life. He lacked a formal education. Had he been a stupid, apathetic man, he might have shrugged his shoulders, drudged along. But he had a passionate love of and curiosity about life. He believed that all men had a right to joy and excitement—enough to keep their spirits green and growing. And he had little patience with whining resignation. So, when the endless sacrifice pressed unusually hard—when some particularly cherished hope had to be passed up, he'd look at mother with his quizzical, laughing eyes and say:

"Then there's just one sensible thing to do, Lizzie. We'll have to go in debt."

"GO IN DEBT!" How could he say that, with money so tragically scarce? I couldn't understand. But gradually I came to see how deeply wise he was.

HE BELIEVED IT WAS BETTER TO GO IN DOLLAR DEBT RATHER THAN RISK A MORE BITTER BANKRUPTCY!

For there's more than one way of "going in debt." A man may empty his pocketbook . . . or empty his soul. He may spend his last dime to buy something which will keep him feeling eager and reckless and gay . . . revive his wonder . . . remind him of the abundance of life. And though his neighbors may call him shiftless, it will have been a noble investment. Or he may hoard his dollars and starve his spirit . . . and be the poorer for it always.

GO IN DEBT! Save and buy sensibly. But never save so grimly that your spirit grows dull and defeated under the ordeal. Always leave a little margin for delight! . . . and love.

GO IN DEBT! Buy something, do something, that will be a challenge to you . . . that will keep you out in the main current instead of stagnating in the backwaters of despair.

GO IN DEBT! And do not fear—the fighting faith that makes you take the chance will reward that risk a hundred fold!

One-Minute Test.

1. Just what is a three-point landing of an airplane?

2. A play and a movie were made from Erskine Caldwell's best-known novel. What is its name?

3. What are radio waves?

Words of Wisdom.

The most unhappy of all men is he who believes himself to be so.—Hume.

Hints On Etiquette.

Go to the end of the line when you want to buy a ticket of any kind before a ticket window. Persons who find a waiting line of people and who push themselves up to the window ahead of the line, should be requested, courteously but firmly, to go to the end of the line and wait their turn.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The perfect landing. It is so called because the three points, two wheels and tail skid, strike the ground simultaneously.

2. "Tobacco Road."

3. Invisible light.

Wheeler May Quit Isolationists, Disturbed Over Some Supporters

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Inner America First circles are churning over reports that Senator Burt Wheeler plus cronies are thinking of climbing off the wobbling isolationist band wagon.

The other two are Republican Senators C. Wayland ("Curly") Brooks of Illinois, and Raymond E. Willis of Indiana.

Publicly, the three are still talking isolationism in calliope overtones. But what gives significant color to the inside word that they are looking for a way out was their stand on the last lend-lease bill.

This bill was vigorously opposed by America First. But none of them took any part in the debate. Willis wasn't even in Washington. Brooks finally voted for the bill. And Wheeler didn't vote at all.

All the other redhot isolationists lined up against the measure.

According to word reaching worried America First chiefs, Wheeler is disturbed over the type of elements forging to the front in the isolationist movement, particularly in local America First units. Close intimates say he was shocked by the groups he encountered at America First rallies during his recent trans-continental speaking junket.

The big hitch on Wheeler's switching over is his vendetta with Roosevelt. If a way could be found to bring the two together, the Montana senator might take the leap and desert his present cronies. But getting the two men together is a big order, as feeling between them is very bitter. Wheeler has long hated Roosevelt and the feeling is heartily reciprocated.

Political Pressure.

BEHIND the undercover wobbling of Brooks and Willis is plain political pressure. Both are under plenty of it in their states.

Brooks comes up for election next year and already several prominent Illinois Republicans are squaring off to run against him on his isolationism. One is Bill Hackett, Chicago business leader and former national committeeman, who vigorously supported Wendell Willkie's militant demand that the GOP abandon its isolationism. Another is William F. Waugh, former Illinois American Legion commander, who also has demanded united support behind Roosevelt's foreign policy.

Politicos close to Brooks say that the chief factor keeping him from bolting is the powerful Chicago Tribune.

This arch isolationist, Roosevelt-hating paper played a big role in Brook's election and the inside political word is that he is fearful of bringing down its fury on his head.

Willis faces no campaign next year, but when he returned to Indiana recently he was startled by the change in sentiment on the foreign issue—particularly among Republican leaders after Willkie's fighting pronouncement.

The local boys told Willis that public opinion was veering strongly against isolationism and that Willkie's stock in Indiana was higher now than it had been even during the 1940 campaign.

The politicos advised Willis to watch his step and not get caught out on a limb on the foreign issue, as it would hurt the party's state ticket next year. What the Indiana senator does remains to be seen, but meanwhile America First generalissimos are losing sleep.

Note: Republican insiders predict that it won't be long before Representative Joe Martin, smart national chairman, will climb off the isolationist wagon and follow Willkie's lead on foreign policy.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Taxes.

NEXT March, Mrs. Roosevelt will pay her largest income tax. Her income is higher, and so is the tax rate.

Principal new item is the $52,000 from her radio sponsors, the Pan American Coffee Bureau. The bureau's seven coffee-producing countries have chipped in to pay the First Lady $2,000 for each weekly 15-minute broadcast for 26 weeks.

Actually, she will earn only half of this sum during this calendar year, the remainder in 1942. The tax on the $26,000 earned in 1941 will come to $17,330. This is based on the safe assumption that Mrs. Roosevelt's income is already in the $75,000 bracket, and thus the added radio income is taxed at a high rate.

Formerly, the entire revenue from Mrs. Roosevelt's radio broadcasts went to charity. The sponsor paid the entire amount direct to the Friends Service Committee and Mrs. Roosevelt never saw the check. But Congressman Ham Fish accused her of evading taxation and now Mrs. Roosevelt deducts from the income whatever is necessary to meet taxes, and pays the balance to charity.

The result is—thanks to Ham Fish—that charity's share is far less, and the principal beneficiary is the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Virulent Red-Tapitis.

PHIL YOUNG, hard-working son of General Electric's Owen D. Young, is taking himself so seriously in the office of Lend-Lease Administration that he is holding British orders up for three and four weeks.

Young Young has a habit of sending back British applications for war material with requests that they give details as to why they need this or that—despite the fact that his job is not supposed to be one of policy. Questions of policy are decided by higher-ups.

Young's favorite practice is to receive a British request, hold it three or four weeks, then bounce it back to the British for "justification."

Delays have become so bad that Ed Stettinius, superior to Young, has had to step in and try to eliminate some of the red tape.

Note: A year ago, Young complained to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that Joe Green of the state department was holding up British shipments with too much red tape. Looks like red-tapitis was the most contagious disease in the Capital.

Army Notes.

Lt. Colonel R. Ernest DuPuy, able, popular chief of the War Department's press section, is the army's outstanding author. Among Dupuy's books are "If War Comes," "World in Arms," "Perish by the Sword," "Where They Have Trod," which is rated as the best non-fiction volume ever written about West Point.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — I wonder how many burnt puddings Martin Block is responsible for every day, how many forgotten roasts? He is one of the curious phenomena of our times. He has lent a new rhythm to dish-washing and floor-sweeping, and brought a gossip columnist's philosophy to wives, mothers, and sweethearts all over the metropolitan area. Martin Block is the housewife's friend.

When he steps to a mike in the studios at WNEW each morning at ten and puts his "Make Believe Ballroom" on the air he gives a "lift" to the little woman who is cleaning the carpet. At night, in their bridge games, the girls say, "Did you hear what Martin had to say this morning? He was out late again last night. He had a headache. But, after taking only two capsules of Red Dog Pain-Killer he felt fine." That's the girls. That's the housewives. They hang on every word he says. And because they do, it will mean that his income will soar to $100,000 this year.

MARTIN BLOCK is a trim, mustached young man in his upper thirties who talks a couple hours to the public every morning over WNEW. He buys the time from the station, resells it to clients. He m. c.'s his "Make Believe Ballroom," a recorded program, during which he ad libs and gossips to his listeners with the familiarity of a confidant. He is their father-confessor and their town-crier. He tells them which night clubs he visits, who's going to have a baby, what the new tunes for the week will be. Last summer he returned after a brief absence with the announcement that he had suffered a slight heart attack—a "flutter" I think he called it—and wives and sweethearts all over the eastern seaboard were thrown into a mild panic . . . "Martin had a heart attack" . . . "Martin had a heart attack" . . . It was a kind of horrified rhythm as the news beat up and down the suburban streets and dominated bridge-table talk for days.

HOW to explain Mr. Block? Simply this: he had an idea and he sold it. During the depression he was beating across the country selling razor blades for a living. He got to New York, put what he called his "Make Believe Ballroom" on the air, began his unrehearsed small talk between recordings to the listening housewives. They ate it up. Wives who miss a broadcast will telephone their friends to inquire, "What did Martin have to say this morning?" Frequently he brings his pals up to the studio—orchestra leaders, dancers, composers. He tells you what they do, how they look, what they like and dislike. And the women absorb it like sponges.

AS a result, there are now "Make Believe Ballrooms" in every section of the country. It has proved a crowd-pleaser. It has added a little star dust to the golddust. The housewives have a theme song now, "I Guess I'll Have to Dream the Rest" because Martin wrote it. He's cocky, dapper, proud of his 14-year-old son who's a cadet at Culver Military Academy.

The one thing calculated to make him madder than a wet hen is that infrequent occasion when he puts an untested record on the air and it turns out to have a smutty or double entendre lyric. He stops the turntable, makes public apology to his listeners, and cracks the record before the open mike.

That's Martin Block.

Maybe So.

A Farmer's Diary

Strange Happenings

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

NORTH of our farm is an old place deserted many years, with no outlet to the main road—with a barn, half of which has already tumbled down, and the remainder poised for a plunge into a gully. Last evening after sundown I walked up that way, in search of a place where I might spend an hour of peace and quiet, and write, undisturbed.

The afterglow of sunset made a saffron reflection against the dilapidated buildings. The tall row of sweet cherry trees was transfigured in the amber atmosphere. Since the grass was damp I moved down along the face of the barn and chose a dry board to sit upon, leaning my head for an instant against the sun-warmed siding.

Suddenly the warning note of a large night owl came from a nearby tree, in tones so deep that involuntarily a chill ran up my spine. I turned toward the direction of the sound and placed my fingers beneath the board on which I sat, for it seemed to move. For no cause whatever that I could detect, one end of the board flew up and came down again hard upon the grassless soil where it had laid so long. I leaped to my feet and kicked it back again, but it slowly resumed its former position. A ripple seemed to run the full length of it.

The old night owl hooted desperately again, with a sound that seemed almost human. My desire to sit at leisure in such a place had suddenly left me. I tried to go, but somehow my feet would not move. Then, from the attic window of the old ramshackle house, several ghostly figures floated. I saw the tops of the cherry trees and these eerie, bird-like shapes moved across them against the light—even the massive trunks were no obstruction. A neighbor's hunting dog stood beneath the moving shapes and stared, then raised his nose and howled, lugubriously. Then he put his tail beneath his legs and ran. Rabbits sprang from the cover of the long dry grass and ran up the slope, so fast that their white tails made blurred streaks. Only the wary skunk and sluggish opossum stood well their ground and ambled closer to me, like brothers in adversity.

One of the airy white figures noticed me at last. It floated nearer and nearer, until half paralyzed, I turned face down upon the grass, peering up from beneath my hat at the fiery eyes of the slinking slithering shape. A foul odor filled the air. I could scarcely breathe.

Then a piercing scream nearly burst my ear drums and I felt a sudden sting and knew a rattling sound that seemed quite earthy and familiar. I sat up suddenly, feeling sheepish. My two oldest boys were standing there, holding their sides. All about me on the ground scattered grains of yellow corn told what had happened.

"Oh Daddy, you were asleep, and your mouth was open—and you looked so funny! I could 'a hit it if you'd just held still, but your hat got in the way, so it hit your ear. Tonight is Halloween—you forgot it, didn't you?"

FRONTIER U. + + + + + +

By Orin Arnold
(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER X

"Well, of . . . all . . . things!" Joy Boone exclaimed slowly, in open contempt. "He didn't know how!"

They were staring after him, watching him grip the saddle horn in misery. Ward remained silent.

"But he wasn't afraid!" Polly breathed in sudden defense of him. "He has never ridden before. But he dared!"

Joy Boone turned to look closely at the dark-stained girl. Brightness on Polly's face made Joy's take on a sudden little defiant challenge.

Rivalry between the two prettiest girls in Frontier university took on a definite if unspoken, unadmitted intensity.

Openly, Polly and Joy were friends. In private, for that matter, neither did any slightest thing that could have been construed as questionable or sneaking or unfair. Nevertheless, the situation had been instantly sensed by the other girls on the campus. Things like that have a way of proclaiming themselves, and what the two girls didn't let slip, the gossips supplied. Before September ended every one knew that the gorgeous blond from New York and the equally beautiful brunette from Arizona were engaged in a competition likely to carry through every sort of endeavor during the school year. It extended to almost every campus activity. It made the principal topic of conversation.

Of course Polly was astute enough to recognize all that.

"It's sickening!" she snapped at her brother Ward. "I don't despise Joy. I don't even dislike her. I admire everything about her!"

Ward grinned amiably. "Sure you do," said he, and meant it. "You're both okay. You're just a couple of good-looking young fillies with red blood in your veins. I wish I could marry you both."

"Why, Ward!"

She gasped that at him but he had passed on, busy this Saturday morning with some calf branding. She leaned against a corral fence as he leaped to his saddle and rode off singing:

"Ho for the days on the range!
Rollicking days,
Frolicking days,
Out on the open range.
Hear you the swish of the
lariat's loop,
The throw! The Catch! The jubilant whoop
Of the cowboy whose daring
And generous sharing
Of work and of pleasure
ta-dum ta-dadee-e-e!"

His voice was as deep and booming as their father's, and Polly liked to hear him sing. His words trailed off out of hearing as the horse he rode faded into the nearby mesquite and palo verde trees. He was headed for the north range, she knew, five miles away. But all at once he called "WHOA! Ho, boy!"

She heard him turn, saw him then gallop back. She waited in surprise while he halted near to her, reached down and tousled her hair. She didn't have to be told that her big brother loved her dearly.

"One thing, kid," he began, with a depth of feeling that Ward seldom revealed. "You're pretty sold on a certain young fellow. I know that; I'm not blind! Well, I've sized him up, and he's okay. If you want him, I want you to have him. Understand? I've been watching you. I see the way you've been teaching him to do things. Why, you've got him to where he can ride pretty well, already! Another month, I bet you have him topping off a bucking bronc. I see you teaching him how to squeeze a trigger and not pull it. I hear you working over his too-goody-goody-bookish speech. Now Sis, a gal doesn't bother with all that—"

"Ward! Why I—!"

"Hush. Doesn't bother with all that unless she means business. Now I am not butting in, and God help the man who did butt in on anything you wanted to do, but there's this and then I'm gone—you know where I hang out, see? I'm your bud. You might think of something I could do, some small task. Moving a rock out of the road, maybe. Something to help. Okay, I'm on deck, waiting."

He whirled his horse and was gone again.

Polly was astonished. Her brother had never before talked quite like this to her. There had always been an understanding of kindship and affection and loyalty, rarely ever any expression of those attributes. Whatever was Ward getting at? Did he mean even more than he said? Some vague intuition told Polly that he did.

His gesture passed out of her mind, though, when she went to school that day, because Joy Kathryn Boone herself was waiting for her on the steps of the Administration building.

"Hiya, Poll. You look wonderful this morning." Joy greeted her pleasantly.

"You're not such an old hag yourself!"

Other girls were present, overhearing. Polly conversed with all of them a moment then walked away arm in arm with Joy.

"Mind if I tell you something, Polly? Mind if I just talk, I mean? You're the only friend I've got here."

"Oh no, Joy! You have scads of friends. But of course, if I—"

"No." Joy was serious now. "I never have. Honest to goodness, I don't. Except for Tootsy, and she's more like a mother. With problems of her own — guess what?—she's drippy about a man herself!"

"Joy! Tell me!"

"You might have seen it. It's Dr. Pal."

That was the nickname Frontier had created for its new president. It was at once a compliment and an intimacy. Dr. Pal.

Polly was thrilled, naturally, and the two girls had to talk that romance out in detail, but Polly knew that Joy hadn't yet come to her main point. They had walked around the cloister, past the cactus garden and over by the long rows of chrysanthemums that were soon to come into bloom. Neither had a class for nearly an hour. They sat on a stone bench beside a trickling fountain.

"Look, kid," Joy began anew, "you aren't the least bit bumb. You know what the college has made of us. We compete in everything. We make the highest grades. We both sing in the glee club, and have the best voices there. I can almost out-shoot you on the pistol range, and one day I will. I can ride western as well as eastern style—in fact I'm coming to despise the miserable little plaster pads they use on the park trails back home. Goodness!" She laughed at her own contempt.

"I know," Polly said, waiting.

"Polly, I love it out here. Honest, Arizona is wonderful!"

"You'll never pick an argument that way!"

"No. Of course I wasn't trying to, either. Polly, do you think—what does your father say? I mean, about Dr. Palmer and all. Isn't he liked by everybody? The trustees, I mean? I think he's wonderful!"

"Oh!" What was Joy getting at, Polly wondered. "Yes. Dad likes him. He has a lot of drive. Honest, and open, and still rather dignified and retiring in manner, like Ken is. You know."

"Ken!" Joy almost whispered that, as if in reverence.

"Ken is a real gentleman," Polly went on.

"What ever makes him so—unapproachable? Shy?"

"Hmmm!" Polly half sang that, non-committally. "Maybe he just doesn't want to be too forward. Too aggressive like. He's learning to fit in out here. Had you noticed? Of late?" She eyed the blond girl shrewdly.

"Oh but he and I have a great deal in common. We're both from the east, and—and—" Joy trailed off.

For the life of her Polly couldn't see what more those two had in common. Both from the east, yes; but utterly different beyond that, unless one counted a certain inherent mental ability. Even there, though, the two personalities diverged; Polly was quick, impulsive, fraught with energies that seemed to crackle and blunder through, while Ken was a scholar given to deep thinking.

"He's kind of like your brother Ward," Joy added.

"Yes. But I didn't know you had observed Ward much."

"I haven't. But I'm pretty good at sizing people up. I said you weren't dumb. I'm not either."

"That's so." But Polly still wondered. Joy had said she wanted to talk. Was it, then, that she merely wanted to talk about men? Many girls did so. Just men, any men. Giving vent to a sort of cosmic feeling inside themselves. But Polly hadn't thought Joy quite like that. She waited.

"Polly, what would happen if I got married?"

"Oh;" Polly sat up now. "Why, nothing! I mean—are you planning to? For pete's sake, Joy!"

"Well, I do think about it. Lately."

"Tell me! Don't tease!"

"Oh, I'm not actually engaged. In fact I haven't even been asked by this particular man. I have been back east — believe me in that—but I haven't been too interested. Anyway Tootsy wouldn't let me. Says I've been too young. I'm mature now. Almost 20. And I haven't told her about this. I—somehow, I wanted to talk to someone nearer my own age. You're the nearest thing I have to a friend. You ARE my friend, aren't you, Polly?"

"Of course, Joy." Polly murmured that with feeling. She had already sensed that Joy Kathryn Boone, even though a person with terrific verve and a beauty that was nationally acclaimed, was in reality lonely at heart. Renowned folk often lack actual intimacy with anyone.

"Then kid—I think I'm really in love! With Ken!"

Polly kept still. But she felt the very life blood seeming to pour out of her, and she knew her face would be ghostly now.

Joy didn't turn, though. She spoke up. "Polly dear, I had to confide somewhere! Ken is so handsome, but he is scared of me. He—he hasn't any money. Dr. Palmer himself doesn't make much here. They would be too proud to—to—oh, Polly, you've got to help me! Ken's the only man I've ever wanted that I couldn't have. And what if I do have money? I have a right to be loved too, haven't I? Haven't I, Polly?"

But Polly McMurray could only stare off, appalled at what circumstance was doing to her own soul.

Early Winter Snow Slows German Advance

One of the reasons for slowing of the German advance on the central front in Russia is revealed in this radiophoto from Berlin, which shows a German sentry standing guard before a snow-covered wooden shelter. For several days, Berlin has claimed that bad weather, rather than Soviet resistance, has been responsible for the lagging of their drive.

STATE RENEWS HOME LICENSE

Compliments Operation of Children's Home Here In Note To Supervisors.

License of the Richland County Children's home had been renewed today by the state department of public welfare which praised the county institution for its progress during the past year.

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Downs, superintendent and matron of the home, the state public welfare re-licensing committee said:

"The committee, in reviewing the report of the work carried on by your institution during the past year, found considerable satisfaction in noting your progress. Your continuing interest in helping maintain and raise the standards of your care for children has been apparent.

"The fact that you are availing yourself of the services of Miss Josephine Peck in an attempt to formulate case records for each of your children indicates your genuine interest in your work."

Miss Peck, sister of Dr. H. B. Peck of Mansfield, is a consultant on child welfare services for the state department of public welfare. She has been working with probate court officials and Supt. and Mrs. Downs of the home in compiling a record of each child in the home to assist in handling children and placing them in the proper environment when they are adopted into private homes.

Children are placed in the home and released to couples by probate court order and after court employes have investigated the cases.

CAST NAMED

Play, 'George and Margaret,' To Be Given By Class.

Patricia Olin was chosen today to play the leading role for the senior class play at Mansfield Senior high school.

Named "George and Margaret," the play will be presented by the January class of the school either on Nov. 10 or 13. School officials said the date would have to be fitted to conflicting events scheduled.

Others in the cast are Clara Ivanich, Arden Miller, Darrell Smith, John Pasheilich, Frank Pival and Margaret Cage.

Written by Gerald Sanory, an English author, the dramatization will be under the direction of Earl L. Heasley, faculty advisor.

BULB RESPONDS TO TOUCH

LEIPZIG—(U.P.)—A new electric light may be turned on or off by merely touching the base, neck or globe. A slight pressure of the finger suffices. The "switchless" electric light was demonstrated at the Leipzig Fair.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Sometimes a book is in itself of such merit that it deserves to be mentioned alone. Such a book is the new edition of STORY PARADE stories, now available at the Mansfield Public Library.

STORY PARADE, gold book—This is not a book to be read from beginning to end at one sitting. The editor suggests that you read GOOD OLD KRISTIE or THE ENCHANTED ROCK first, and then that you lay the book aside. The next time you read look at the list of stories in the front and choose any one that sounds good to you. If you use the book in this way, it is sure to be like a friend to you.

This title and others like it are especially recommended for a growing child's own library. They give so many hours of pleasure to a changing youngster for the amount of money invested. Grown-ups will like to tell many of these stories to children, and children will be telling their friends about them. All of these stories have previously appeared in the Story Parade magazine for boys and girls.

Portugal has been a republic since 1911.

URGES MADISON VOTERS TO O. K. SCHOOL LEVY

Superintendent Emphasizes That Tax Only Continues Present Assessment.

Urging Madison township voters to continue a three-mill levy to supply funds for the township school system, Olan LaRue, school superintendent, has placed a circular in the mails to all parents of pupils in the township schools.

In the circular, LaRue explained that the levy would expire this year after being in force for 11 years and that if voters did not renew it in the November election, the school system would be deprived of one fifth of its operating revenues.

If the levy is not passed, LaRue said, the school system would be forced to abandon its class A rating and possibly some of the higher grades in Madison high school.

Although listed on the ballot as an "additional" tax called that in accordance with law, LaRue said this levy would not be in reality an additional tax, but a continuation of the present rate.

Inaugurated in 1930 for three years, the levy was continued for another three years in 1933 and for an additional five years in 1936

The present ballot asks for a continuation for still another five year period.

In closing LaRue stressed that the money gained if the levy is passed will not be used to enlarge the educational program, but rather to maintain the program already in operation.

PUTS DEFENDANT ON PROBATION

Stanley Allgire, 26, of Fredericktown, R. D. 2, was placed on probation for three years yesterday afternoon in common pleas court after he pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment accusing him of misrepresenting his estate to obtain a loan from a Bellville bank.

Judge C. H. Huston ordered the probation and told Allgire to report regularly to David Lantz, county probation officer. Allgire was taken into court after spending one day in the county jail. He was taken into custody on a secret indictment returned several weeks ago.

STATEMENT of POLICY

Time Payments
AS APPROVED BY "UNCLE SAM"

Because of the confusion and uncertainty in the minds of the public regarding the new time payment regulations as set up by the Federal Government, we are printing this frank Statement of Policy in order to make clear that you can continue to buy here on unusually convenient time payments, so plan your Christmas shopping accordingly!

NO DOWN PAYMENT! . . .

Come in and take your choice of anything in our stock, make no down payment, and get immediate delivery of your purchases in any amount. Pay the entire amount in one lump sum within thirty days after date of delivery. This is our regular charge account plan.

NO MONEY DOWN! . . . .

Come in and select anything in our stock—no exceptions—and pay no money down, arranging to pay the balance in two monthly or 8 weekly payments. This applies to all merchandise—no exceptions.

10% DOWN! . . . . . .

Up to seventy-two weeks or eighteen months to pay the balance! This applies to all merchandise except radios and electrical appliances. Surely such a liberal credit proposition will enable you to be a generous Santa Claus this year, giving substantial gifts to your loved ones and having plenty of time to pay for them easily out of income!

20% DOWN . . . . . .

Up to seventy-two weeks or eighteen months to pay. This applies only to electrical refrigerators, radios, electric washers, electric sweepers, gas ranges and heaters. This enables you to give gifts of this substantial character with a small outlay of cash and a long time to pay the balance.

LAY-AWAY PLAN! . . . .

Come in and select anything in our stock. Pay as little as $1.00 down and we will hold your selections until you are ready for delivery. In the meantime you can be making payments to suit your convenience. Then, when you are ready for delivery, you can pay the necessary additional sum, if any, to acquire your purchases under any of the credit plans outlined in previous paragraphs.

THERE ARE NO NEW FEDERAL TAXES ON FURNITURE!

CROCHETED EDGINGS PATTERN 2913

To make youngsters' clothes distinctive—to give gift linens that handmade look, use these crocheted edgings. They're suitable for everything, from handkerchiefs up—for straight or round edges. There are ten different designs. Pattern 2913 contains directions for making edgings; illustrations of them and stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

If you have trouble in finding clothes that fit and are really slenderizing, you should try Pattern 9899 by Marian Martin. The V-neck, the front-buttoned bodice, the slim-twin panels in the skirt all give you height by their vertical lines. The semicircular yoke, too, with the gentle fullness below it, is becoming to those with a larger bust. The collar and cuffs look very jaunty made of contrast fabric, though of course cuffless three-quarter or long sleeves may be used instead. Look how simple the back of the frock is to make—it's cut in two sections only! You'll find this an easy dress to finish with the Sew Chart's guidance—you'll find it an all-round frock to wear, especially "in print."

Pattern 9899 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department. 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Sheer joyous relief held me silent for the fraction of a second after Lillian's reply It had seemed an insurmountable task to rouse her from her lethargy, to say nothing of telling her how I had sought—and found—the letter she had so cleverly hidden. And now victory was mine!

"Then I know you are in a forgiving mood," I said, trying to infuse a light note into my voice, "and I can confess with the certainty of being shriven. Yes, I looked for your letter everywhere — you were exceedingly clever, my dear—and I finally found it."

Her eyes went to the quilted robe lying across the foot of her bed.

"Did you put it back?" she asked. "But of course, being you, you did, not knowing how I was going to react—to everything—when I woke up."

"I knew when you came to yourself, you would react exactly as you have," I told her warmly. "It wasn't in flesh and blood for you to endure what you have borne, just because you didn't know about the old code book."

She made no direct comment upon that speech, and I knew that doubt of Marion—hers or that of any other person—was to be a subject taboo from now on.

"Who saw the letter?" she asked next, and with a remembrance of Miss Whitlock's plea to me I prepared for loyal falsehood.

"Father, Harry and myself," I said.

"Not Miss Whitlock?" she said quickly, and I shook my head.

"No, she was downstairs when I found it," I said elaborating my fib. "I copied it for Father and Harry, then I put everything back in the package you made and sewed it up again in the hem."

"Let me see!" she said childishly, and I handed her the quilted robe. She looked at the hem, then handed it back to me.

"You imitated my stitching beautifully," she said, and I promised myself to pass the compliment along to the nurse who had done the work, as soon as I should get her by herself.

"I am not thinking straight," she said next, with stern self-accusation "What I must find out is what Marion's letter means. You say you made a copy of it?"

"Yes, for Father?"

"Is he here?"

"No, he left about an hour ago, Miss Whitlock told me, but he may not have taken those things with him. Shall I ask Harry?"

"Please!" she said. "Then I will not have to rip the original letter out of the hem. It is safe there. Nobody but you would ever discover it."

I raised my voice and called "Harry!", and the next instant the big man came through the door and over to the bedside.

Wants to See Code Book.

"Oh, Harry!" she said, "such glorious news! But of course you know. Tell me, did the Chief take the copy of Marion's letter and the code book with him? You see Madge has told me all about it."

He threw me a grateful and admiring look as he answered her.

"No, I have them both right in my pocket."

"Oh, let me see them, quickly!" she pleaded. But as he took the packet from his coat, I again took Lillian's hands in mine

"Dear Girl" I said, "you must not exert yourself so much just now. It isn't necessary. What do you think I've been doing since I ripped out that letter?"

Her face lighted, and she tightened her clasp on my hands.

"Oh, I see," she said. "You've decoded it. You know what she means Oh, tell me quickly."

I recapitulated quickly the points I had discovered in the letter, and releasing my hands, she ticked them off on her fingers.

Lillian Understands It All.

"Then," she said, at last, "everything she said about being married or being in love with that man is false; the reason she wanted to have Mary see the letter was not to get something blue, but to have Mary decode the letter; she will not be at the restaurant when I go there, and she especially does not wish me to go there. Is that right?"

"That is just the way we interpreted it," I said. Then she put the question I had dreaded to hear.

"Why do you suppose she does not want me to go to that rendezvous? I might get track of her if I contacted one of those men."

"Perhaps," I hesitated, "she knows it is a trap for you."

BOWMAN MOTHERS.

Eight members of the Bowman Mothers club held a Halloween party at the school cafeteria last evening. Mrs. Willard Whittemire was general chairman. Miss Mayer was awarded the prize for the best masquerade and Mrs. B. J. Bucher won the award for the most unique costume. Contest prizes were won by Mrs. A. E. Garverick, E. W. Kissel, Mrs. Frank Bechtel and Mrs. C. B. Piatt. Club prizes were won by Mrs. Joe Bamberg, Mrs. Clyde Willard and Mrs. C. L. Mason. Pumpkins were the decorations used for the refreshment table. The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the school.

PLAN DINNER.

Beta Epsilon sorority members held a scavanger hunt preceding their business meeting recently During the business session, which was held in the club rooms, plans were made for a covered dish dinner to be held Nov. 5 at the Y. W. C. A. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. The committee in charge of arrangements for this dinner party includes the Misses Lee Weigland, Myrtle Rinehart, Mary O'Donnell and Lucille Meyer. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting.

MEET AT SOMERS.

Past Pocahontas members will hold a meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Mary Somers, 59 Wood street.

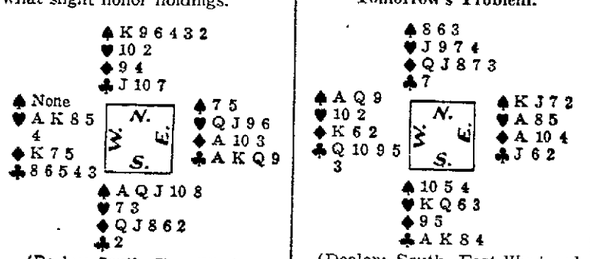
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GET IN THE FIRST LICK

Two of the greatest bridge experts of all time, the late Milton C. Work and Wilbur C. Whitehead, were vociferous exponents of the value of rather light opening bids. They favored them in auction, and carried the same theories along into contract, with only the slightest of changes in that particular respect. Some of the newer lights who sprang up during their last years thought of them as a couple of "old fogies" for not insisting on great strength when the bidding was opened. The day of their vindication has come, however, as the overwhelming proportion of top rank players today are now opening the kind of hands the great old-timers favored, especially when they have suit-length values to offset somewhat slight honor holdings.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Dbl
2. Pass	1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
3 ♠	4 ♠	5 ♣	7 ♥

Bidding at both tables of a team of four game shows a great contrast above. Where South saw fit to open his hand, with his great distributional values, the opponents were unable to get into the bidding at all. West would be sticking his neck away out to call his hearts at the range of two while vulnerable, after South opened the bidding with a spade. East really required a good deal of nerve to even double the contract, with his holding, as South might have had most of those honor tricks held by West, so far as East could tell.

It happened that the 4-Spades contract was set only two tricks, as South lost only two tricks in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. So East and West scored only 300 points at the table where South opened the bidding.

At the other table, the pass by South enabled the opponents to show both their strength and the fit of their hands early. South's entering the bidding at the range of three was highly dangerous, even though he wasn't vulnerable. However, his call only helped the enemy reach the ideal contract, coupled with plenty of nerve on their part. It was made by discarding one of East's diamonds on the fifth club and then ruffing West's third diamond in the dummy.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South opens this deal with 1-Club, what would you do in the North after West passes? If you bid 1-Diamond in response. East passes, South then bids 1-Heart and West passes, what would you do in North, and why?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 1.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

A VERY lively and eventful day is forecast from the interesting lunar transits This may concern some new plans of objectives of public, group or community welfare or advancement. These may move at high pressure and with bold initiative, but there is danger of overdoing or excessive zeal, which might prove detrimental. Suppress any tendencies to drastic action. Be moderate, and do not force action in business or private affiliations, which hold an omen for treachery or imposition

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is have the augury of a very lively and productive year, perhaps in a combination for public, collective or community well-being. New ideas and determined effort should thrive, but not under too much forcing or drastic action, which might defeat cherished objectives. In all relations be moderate and poised, and be alert to deception.

A child born on this day will be energetic, talented in both practical and artistic lines, but its impetuous nature may prove its undoing, unless moderation is exercised

WAR RELIEF MEETING.

Members of the War Relief committee of the Women of the Moose held a hobo party last night at the home of Mrs. Alice Mast, 401 West Fifth street. Stew was served over a campfire after which prizes were awarded for the best dressed hobo. Mrs. May Bookman and Mrs. Bertha Tinkey won the awards. The next session will be announced later with Mrs. Myrtle Clements, Walker street, as hostess. This will be an all day meeting to sew for the Red Cross.

FELLOWSHIP CLASS.

Mrs. John Metzger and Mrs. Richard Taubenheim were hostesses last evening for the meeting of the Fellowship class of the Evangelical Congregational church. Thirty-two were in attendance at Johns park for a Halloween party. Games and contests were the diversion with prizes being won by many. Guests arrived in fancy costumes. At a late hour a luncheon was served.

POCAHONTAS LODGE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Konves, North Mulberry street, will entertain members of the Pocahontas lodge at her home Monday evening.

BAND CLUB DINNER.

Announcement is being made of the covered-dish dinner meeting of the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school Band Parents' club which will be held Tuesday evening at the high school cafeteria. Hosts for the occasion are Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hockett, Mr. and Mrs. George Vawter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dune and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Breckenridge. A program will be presented during the evening.

Gentlemen:
We sincerely feel that a major factor in helping our product become America's largest selling ready-to-eat cereal has been our policy of heavy and consistent newspaper advertising.
In 1941 we have again counted heavily upon the power of newspaper advertising to promote the sale of Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Kellogg's Corn Flakes advertising is appearing in over four hundred daily papers.
May I take this opportunity to thank you, in behalf of the Kellogg Company, for the splendid co-operation received from your newspaper.
Sincerely yours,
W. K. Kellogg

News Happenings From Communities In Richland County, Vicinity

INTEREST IN POLITICS AT ASHLAND LAGS

Attention Focused on Race For Mayor; Three Opposed For City Council.

ASHLAND — Fifty-six absent and disabled votes were cast with the Ashland county election when the time for filing closed at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Meanwhile candidates throughout the city and county have been conducting quiet campaigns for Tuesday's election.

Most attention is being focused upon the one for mayor of Ashland with Howard S. Lutz, present mayor, seeking his second term. He is opposed by Glenn Haller, Ashland real estate dealer.

The city ballot being non-partisan, party lines are withdrawn in this election.

Three of the present councilmen are opposed for their re-election; Chester G. Walz, councilman-at-large by Chester H. Willis; Richard H. Paxton, second ward councilman by W. A. Clawson, and Bryan A. Easterday, third war councilman by Walter G. Straits.

Jack B. Lentz, third ward councilman and Harry E. Matthews, candidate for first ward councilman, are unopposed.

An extensive campaign is also being made for judge of police court, by Atty. Robert W. Lett having been nominated at the primary, and Harold E. Andrews, jr., new Ashland attorney, having had his named placed on the ballot by petition.

Both candidates are young men, Lett having been in law practice here only a few years, and Andrews having been admitted to the bar only this summer.

C. S. Huffman is the only candidate for director of law.

School officials and board members are urging the voters of the city to vote the 7.70 mill school rate, Ashland having had this additional levy outside the ten mill limitation for a period of nearly 25 years.

Organize Defense Council at Lucas 'Town Hall' Meet

LUCAS — At a "town hall" meeting of citizens in the Lucas school auditorium last night a community defense council was formed under the direction of Mayor L. M. Smith.

In compliance with the state law, chairmen were named to perform emergency functions as might be required in a major war program.

Included in the list of chairmen elected are Robert L. Mowers, utilities; Homer Oswalt, communications; Dr. P. J. Lee, health and welfare; Ben Cole, foods; Merle Nichols, sanitation; N. H. Heston, transportation; Ray Muth, ex-service men; Mrs. Martha Stewart, Red Cross.

Rev. J. A. Peyton, churches; Supt. V. L. Gilliland, schools; Parry Leiter, labor; W. S. Barger, county representative; Walter Jones, emergency police; Fire Chief D. D. Peterson, fire watchers; Mrs. Sam Chamberlain, air raid warning; Fred Culler, road and street repairs; E. Dean Byerly, rescue squad; R. N. McMichael, publicity.

GALION WOMAN SUCCUMBS AT 92

GALION—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary M. Sosenheimer, 92, who died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Keppler in Cleveland, will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Rev. William Pfeifer, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Born April 5, 1849 at St. Mary's Pa., Mrs. Sosenheimer had lived in Galion for the past 30 years. For the past year and a half she had lived with her daughter in Cleveland. She was a member of the altar society of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

In addition to her daughter in Cleveland, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Merton Mount and Kathryn Sosenheimer, both of Galion and a sister, Mrs. Jefferson Ganshorn of Galion.

SIX LISTED

NORTH FAIRFIELD—The advisory board, appointed by the Board of Education, has secured six people who are willing to serve on the Board of Education. They are: Helen Woodworth, Ernest Disbro, George Sweeting, Virgil Fife, Walter Silliman, Gertrude A. Rogers.

The Business club is sponsoring the publicity. There will be blank spaces on the ballots to write in the names.

NAME COMMITTEE

Freshman class of North Fairfield high school held a meeting to elect a committee for assembly. The assembly will be held on Nov. 24. The members of the committee are John Moser, Donald Getz, Jean Parrott, Lola Power and Kathryn McPherson.

REPORTS FOR DUTY

GALION—Robert Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Thomas, who recently enlisted in the navy, left for Cleveland to report for duty. He enlisted in the coast guard department.

SHIP GARMENTS

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus Red Cross chapter shipped two boxes of garments to headquarters in October, Mrs. Myron Millar, shipping chairman has announced. More volunteer sewers are needed if the city is to fill its quota by the last of December, Mrs. Millar has advised.

In the October shipment were boys' flannel shirts, men's pajamas, boys' wool shorts, mittens, sweaters, socks and shawls, and girls' cotton and wool dresses.

PARADES MARK CELEBRATION

Shelby Stages Two Affairs as Climax To Halloween Observance.

SHELBY—Hundreds of persons were lined along Main street downtown here yesterday afternoon and evening to witness the annual Halloween parades sponsored by the Shelby Better Business club.

The high school band of 75 pieces led the procession for the children in the afternoon. The Shelby Public and Parochial schools were closed early so school children could take part in afternoon activities.

Another parade was held in the evening for the adult residents of the community. This procession was led by the Shelby High School alumni band. Both bands were directed by Music Supervisor H. G. Koerber.

The program was climaxed with a dance at the Eagle hall. Music was furnished by Arthur Shreffler's orchestra and Bill Rader's band from Mansfield.

Heading the celebration this year was Jacque Love, program chairman of the Better Business club. He was assisted by other members of the club.

WOMEN'S CLUBS CONCLUDE MEET

88 Attend Defense Luncheon at Ashland District Meet Thursday.

ASHLAND—Concluding a two-day conference of the Middle North District of Federation of Women's Club, 88 club women attended the Defense luncheon at the Methodist church Thursday noon.

"The Defense of American Democracy" was the subject presented by Dr. Raymond W. Bixler, professor of history and political science at Ashland college.

Also speaking at the luncheon were Mrs. Wilbur A. Jones of Sandusky, district defense chairman, Mrs. Ross Beiter of Canton, state defense chairman, and Mrs. F. C. Billings of Elyria, state chairman of health.

Music in keeping with the defense program was "Americans in Song" by Donald W. Johnston, baritone, accompanied by Miss Eunice Kettering, both of the Ashland college music department.

Fifty-three were present at a breakfast Thursday morning which honored Mrs. Floyd Dewey of Toledo, state program planning chairman, and club presidents of the district.

The banquet of the conference Wednesday night was attended by 145. Total registration for the various sessions of the conference was 185 guests and 114 local club women, one of the largest district conferences in a number of years.

GALION MASONS HOST TO GROUP

GALION—Galion chapter, of R. A. M. of Ohio entertained the Franz K. Hall Past High Priests and Officers of the Tenth District.

At this time, Budd Lisle, local member received official notification of his appointment as associate inspector for the Tenth District of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Ohio.

There were around 78 present for the meeting in the Masonic Temple. Speaker of the evening was Sam H. Squires of Tiffin, 33rd Degree Mason, Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of F. and A. M. of Ohio and former state superintendent of banks and also a former district governor of Rotary International. His subject was "The Universality of Free Masonry."

RITES SATURDAY

GALION—Funeral services for James Sanford Green, 61, who died Wednesday at his home here will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Whittridge Funeral home. Rev. W. A. Martin, pastor of the Presbyterian church will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Survivers include his widow, Adelaide Crowley and a brother, Howard of Galion.

CUT DELIVERIES

BUCYRUS—In line with similar action taken in other Ohio cities recently, six Bucyrus dairies today announced the discontinuance of Sunday milk deliveries. The new order will go into effect Nov. 2.

Dairies joined in the new ruling are Durigg, Jersey Maid, Lone Pine, Pfeifer, Smooth-Kool, and A. J. Beall.

CRESTLINE COUPLE WED IN QUIET CEREMONY WEDNESDAY

CRESTLINE — At 9:30 Wednesday, Miss Louise E. Potter became the bride of Allen E. Horning in a ceremony performed at the Most Pure Heart of Mary church in Shelby. Rev. Fr. Michael McFadden read the nuptial high mass.

Baskets or yellow and white chrysanthemums and candelabra decorated the church altars.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Potter, of Cleveland, wore a defense blue crepe street dress for her wedding with matching hat, white gloves and a corsage of white roses.

Her maid of honor, Hazel Horning, sister of the groom, wore chestnut brown crepe with brown and gold accessories, and her corsage was of yellow roses.

Wilbur Horning, brother of the groom, was the best man. Ushers were Ned Foltz and Arthur Huber both of Crestline.

Mrs. Potter appeared at her daughter's wedding in a black ensemble with corsage of white mums, and Mrs. Horning, mother of the groom, also wore black and her corsage was of yellow mums.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at Shelby Inn. Covers were placed for 14. A color scheme of yellow and white was used and a tiered wedding cake centered the table.

When the couple left later on a wedding trip the bride added a blue coat with grey Persian trim to her bridal ensemble for traveling.

The bride has made her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Lamoureax, in this city. She graduated from Crestline High school and the Mansfield Business school. She resigned her position as secretary at the Mutual Plate Glass and Casualty company in Shelby recently.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Horning of North Washington road. He graduated from Crestline High school. He is employed as supervisor of the Hires and Canada Dry Beverages in connection with the Central Fruit and Grocery company in Mansfield.

After Nov. 10 the couple will be at home at 462 Woodward avenue, Mansfield.

STAGE SET FOR ANNUAL PARTY

NEW LONDON—Everything was in readiness for a civic Halloween party to be held here tonight. There will be a street parade of costumed Halloweeners, with prizes to be awarded for the best costumes.

A street dance will be held, and in case of inclement weather, the dance will be held in the Grange hall. Free cider and doughnuts will be distributed during the evening.

Effort is being made to have a parade of floats in addition to the costume parade.

WED THURSDAY

GALION—Marriage vows were exchanged in a double ring service Thursday at the parsonage of First Reformed church by Mabel Stella Laughbaum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Laughbaum, and Private Lowell Daniel Eichhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eichhorn. Rev. R. R. Elliker officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Eichhorn left immediately for a trip through the west. He is in selective service training at Camp Shelby, Miss., and was graduated from North Robinson high school. Mrs. Eichhorn was graduated from Whetstone high school.

RITES SATURDAY

To Give You This —
FOR HOME — Years of dependable service have taught you to count on gas for home use under all conditions.
and This —
FOR DEFENSE — This year we have the added responsibility of assuring a dependable gas supply to the many defense industries which use gas.
When The Weather Is Like This —
In the face of greatly increased taxes and higher payrolls, The Gas Company is investing $6,500,000 to handle the anticipated conditions this year that were not with us last season.
Very likely we'll have a much colder winter. Increased employment should mean more families using gas. In years past we could curtail certain industries when gas was needed in the homes. This season we've pledged to provide the many defense industries to the limit of their demands.
We're drilling hundreds of more wells, storing more gas in the ground near the markets, revamping our entire transmission and compressor set-up, strengthening distribution systems. It is costly, yes, but it is your assurance of an adequate gas supply when the blizzards rage in zero weather.

GEN. JOHNSON: Army Takes Over Bendix Aircraft Plant

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—A man would be a fool to try to predict this war by three months—and much more so for a year. But there is at least one aspect that seems predictable. The jitters about a new A.E.F. in Europe caused in some quarters by the president's Navy Day speech, are without foundation. There will be none in the sense of 1917 now, or for a year to come. There will be none because there could be none. We have neither the equipment, the training, the ammunition, the transportation nor the possible landing places and European bases to send one.

Johnson

We are still so inadequately armed in tanks, cannon, aircraft and explosives as to make any such expedition less than inexcusable folly. Considering the situation in both Britain and Russia, we are cutting off our own forces from these necessary supplies to implement them, and we shall have to continue to do so if we are to pursue our present policy. That policy I do not question.

Russia cannot stand without vast supplies of tanks, artillery and planes. Her losses in these categories have been tremendous. Britain is in the gravest danger both in north Africa and in the middle east. The only thing that can possibly save her is a very heavy flow of the very things which are indispensable to our creation of anything remotely resembling an effective expeditionary force.

As to Russia, I can see how, after months of effort, we might manufacture the kind of equipment she needs, but for the life of me I can't see how we can deliver it on the battle lines. The transportation routes are longer and more precarious than were sever even attempted for a major action. There are only three—through the White sea, through the Persian gulf, through Vladivostok. The first will soon be ice-bound, and even if it were not, the long line of rail transportation from ports to battle-front could be quite easily severed. Vladivostok is at the mercy of Japan, and even then the line is too long and the transportation too slow to force through the vast tonnages in time. Much the same is true of the Persian Gulf route.

The situation is more hopeful in aid to the British in the forthcoming Libyian campaign, and much more hopeful in aiding in the defense of the British Isles with this heavy equipment.

But to do or try to do all this and, at the same time to build up a great new A.E.F. is clear out of the picture. That doesn't mean that we may not be soon sending abroad special detachments like the one to Iceland. It doesn't mean that the situation may not so change that, say in a year from now, we may not be called upon for a new expeditionary force. But it still seems to me that, difficult as is any military forecast in this most unpredictable of all wars, the controlling facts in this case are so clear that it is safe to say that any new overseas adventure such as our Herculean effort in 1917 and 1919 is clear out of the picture.

I am not talking here about the possible wishes of this war-minded administration, but solely about its limitations. There won't be an A.E.F. in the next year because, in the nature of things, there can't be one.

PLANNING GIANT NEW TAX BILL OF 6 BILLIONS

Administration Seeks To Cut 'Excess Purchasing Power' With Stiffer Levies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—(AP)—High administration officials disclosed today they have in preparation a huge new tax program, designed to collect approximately $6,000,000,000 of "excess purchasing power" from the nation's collective pocketbook.

The money would be raised by stiffer regular taxes, increased social security taxes, and other methods, officials said, and the play may be ready for presentation to congress before Christmas.

The new program, they asserted, was needed both to prevent inflation and to help finance the country's ever-expanding defense effort.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said yesterday that higher social security rates would be proposed, but other officials followed up this announcement by revealing that a whole new regular tax bill was being rushed for possible presentation months ahead of all previous forecasts.

If all the contemplated new levies are combined in a single omnibus measure, the new tax bill would dwarf the record-breaking $3,500,000,000 tax law just passed by congress.

The $6,000,000,000 program arose from estimates prepared by various federal economists that to prevent inflation the government should immobilize between $5,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 of new purchasing power—money people are making now through increased wages or from new jobs as a result of the defense program that they didn't take a year or two ago.

They are thinking of getting anywhere from $1,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 from increased social security taxes. They hope to get another amount within about the same range from regular taxes. That may leave a sizeable chunk of money to be "mopped up" — Secretary Morgenthau's term for it—by other methods.

There are two current proposals for changing social security taxes being considered by the administration. One would advanse by one year the automatic provisions of the existing social security tax law and require employes and employers to pay 2 per cent on payrolls for old age pensions, instead of 1 per cent as at present.

The other plan would be to require employes to pay a 5 per cent tax for old age pensions, and make employers pay 2 per cent for pensions plus the present 3 per cent for unemployment insurance.

With political meetings being held every other night for the 1941 campaign, old-timers may hearken back to former meetings held in the city. Elmer Carrico, 505 Wayne street, recently found in an old Springmill street barn a faded picture of a political rally held on North Park street. Wearing clothes of the middle 1890's and holding signs boosting a candidate named Hancock, the political supporters are getting ready to hold an old-time parade.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and his deputies were looking for a boy today, but not because he was involved in a Halloween prank. The youth, unknown to the officers, is the owner of a bicycle which was found last night near G.B.U. park and turned over to the sheriff. Authorities said the bicycle apparently was stolen and hidden in weeds near the park. The owner can have it by calling at the county jail and describing the 'cycle.

Most persons would shy at the idea of having an elephant for a pet but Author Louis Bromfield told members of the Cleveland Rotary club yesterday that the elephant shows the personality, intelligence and sense of humor to make it the "best pet in the world." Bromfield discussed the attributes of elephants during a talk on his hunting experiences in India. In that country, which the author described as "fantastic, romantic, comic and hopeless," he said elephants become so attached to their masters that they not infrequently take their own lives if separated from them.

2,200 TROOPS STAND GUARD AFTER CLASH

President Orders Action as Labor Dispute Threatens Big Defense Orders.

BENDIX, N. J.—(AP)—The army took over operation of the plant of Air Associates, Inc., today with an estimated 2,200 soldiers on guard after President Roosevelt said a labor dispute threatened to halt production.

The troops were ordered to the plant by Secretary of War Stimson under instruction of the president who issued an executive order last night directing the army to take over. Air Associates has $5,000,000 in defense orders for aviation equipment.

A clash between CIO strikers and returning non-union workers precipitated the president's action, the third time the federal government has taken over production stopped or threatened by labor disputes.

Steel-hatted and carrying bayonets, the troops barred all entrances to the plant and set up machine guns on all sides.

Lieutenant John Austin, acting public relations officer, announced there would be no work today, but that it would be resumed as soon as details could be settled. Civilian employes were barred meanwhile.

The first contingent of soldiers from Fort Jay, Governors Island, N. Y., arrived at 3:35 a. m. (EST). Three other contingents followed from Forts Wadsworth and Hamilton, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Fort Hancock.

Brigadier General Forrest E. Williford, commander of the second coast artillery district, was in command of the troops. He arrived shortly before the first contingent and immediately went into conference with Col. Roy M. Jones, eastern district supervisor for the air corps procurement division, who took charge of the plant.

Colonel Jones said in a statement:

"My instructions from Washington are to immediately take all steps necessary to protect workers entering the plant, leaving the plant, and if necessary in their homes and to take such other measures as may be needed in the interests of national defense.

"Effective immediately the plant will be open for work under government control. Employes desiring to return to their jobs will be given all necessary protection to insure free and safe entrance to and exit from the factory."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

It's So Peaceful In the City.

IF the city's an island called Manhattan, a little oval of real estate we got from those peace-pipe smokers, the Indians. And if you know your way around. And if you look with love.)

Sure, this is a noisy town. Sure, New York is a loud, exciting place with an urban symphonic cacaphony always in your ears—but wedged into all the tumult and shouting it has places of peace, moments of tranquility, that the country can't touch. Broadway and the frantic jammed neon sections of the town wink the come-on for country folk with money to spend for good things and a good time. But don't forget the quiet things around the corner. Don't forget the charming things, the mellow places.

It's So Peaceful In The Country." Oh, sure. You know the song, and you know the country, too. Trees and grass and more sky than you ever see between the sharp angles of the city buildings, and crickets crooning and the dull weighted empty peace of nothing-to-do-until-tomorrow.

City peace is stimulating, delicately balanced, separated from bedlam by only a thin door. Precious peace. You can find it on the windy terrace of a penthouse built close to the city stars; you can find it on the steps of a dark brick tenement on a summer evening when the rest of the street has gone to bed and you sit in the shadows watching the cop walk past the corner, watching the light go out in the window of the delicatessen store.

Yes, it is peaceful in the city. . . . There's that easy acre of Manhattan called Central Park, where Mr. and Mrs. J. Doe can roll up their sleeves and take it easy. Where they can cycle on a proper track or watch the citizens in the Zoo, or just stretch out in the sun and wish that every day were Sunday, and that the office didn't want to hear from them any more, except, maybe, to come in for a pay envelope or a promotion. . . . Central Park is mobilized peace, all right, but in New York relaxation is where you find it. Everybody isn't always late, everybody isn't always in a hurry here. Listen a moment.

* * *

Listen. Hear a thousand and one cabbies snoozing away between jobs. . . . The next moment they may be in a maelstrom of crashing bumpers, honking horns and rowdy arguments and choruses of "Whaddya think—?". and "Ya bum!" but in between they're as peaceful as lambs, the kind that go "Baaaa!" . . . Hear the sweet whistling of silver skates over the ice rink of Radio City's Promenade, where the graceful cut-ups cut their figure "VIII"—just like on a millpond. . . . And what about the blanket of refined silence that rests lightly over the halls of the Public Library at Fifth and 42nd? . . . And the wooing, cooing pigeons in Bryant Park near by? . . . That's peace, brother!

RESCUE PARTY HUNTS 2 PILOTS

Bomber Sees Names Spelled Out With Rocks on Side of Mountain.

(By United Press)

FRESNO, Cal. — Up the snow-banked, rough and treacherous north side of Barton peak a rescue party of 20 men pushed today to bring down two army pilots who had been missing a week.

They were sighted by a searching army bomber yesterday, at an elevation of 10,000 feet, high above the snow line on the craggy peak.

They had spelled their names with piles of rocks and army officials said they identified themselves as two of the three pilots who disappeared in their single-seater P-40 fighters from a flight of 19 ships last Friday.

Officials refused to reveal the names they gave—no sense stirring false hopes of relatives, they said. The missing pilots were Lieuts. Jack C. West, Leonard W. Lyndon and R. N. Long.

Barton peak is in Kings Canyon National park, near the Tehachapi mountain area, 70 miles east of here.

How the pilots have lived a week on the Rocky mountain side will remain unanswered until the rescue party reaches them, and members of the party, who had been standing by here since the planes disappeared, said it may take two or three days to get up the slope and back down.

RUBINOFF'S CONCERT NUMBERS WIN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

A near-capacity audience that sustained the enthusiastic reception it accorded Dave Rubinoff, violinist, when he appeared on the platform at Senior high school auditorium last night, left the auditorium whistling the tunes he has popularized on the stage and over the radio.

Applause engulfed the artist after every turn indicating that the audience was satisfied and happy no matter what the number, a gypsy dance, a sentimental song or a dash of swing. And Rubinoff's musicianship covered them all.

The audience had fun, too, particularly when Rubinoff, a showman at heart, indicated he wasn't above suggesting a bit of the jitterbug by making his valued Stradivarius fairly speak in "Oh, Johnny, Oh," played as an encore climax to the first part of his program.

Appearing here under the auspices of the Lions club as a benefit for the blind of Richland county, Rubinoff played two concert., a matinee program at John Simpson Junior high school for school pupils and his evening concert for adults. In the afternoon his audience were the blind folk of Richland county who come to the city each Thursday for a recreation period at the Salvation Army.

Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," was heard for the first time by a local audience as a violin solo when the artist opened the second part of his program with his own transcription of the Gershwin work with its kaleidoscopic tonal shadings. He shared the surge of applause after this number with his accompanist Alexander Makofka who also appeared twice on the program in his own right as a platform artist.

"When Day is Done," Katscl..r, considered Rubinoff's most popular request from radio audiences: "Banjo Eyes," a Rubinoff number dedicated to Eddie Cantor; Drdla's "Souvenir," one of the violinist's most popular offerings of the evening, and his own "Danse Russe," completed the program.

In a brief curtain speech Rubinoff expressed his appreciation to the audience for his reception and paid his respects to the late Victor Herbert who had been responsible for his coming to America 30 years ago. As a final gesture he dedicated Herbert's number "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," to "each and every member of the audience." He was called back for one more encore and he played his radio theme, "Give Me a Moment Please."

Makofka's program was a pleasant addition to the concert. The pianist played Mendelssohn's "Concerto in G Minor (1st Movement) "Liebestraum," Liszt, and "Waltz in E Minor," Chopin' as his first group. His second included "Fantaisie Impromptu," and "Waltz Brillante in A Flat," Chopin, and "Malaguena," Lecuona.

The pianist chose his selections for their melodic appeal and he played them with fine feeling and definite show of brilliance.

The thrills of hearing his program were doubled for three high school students, who, last night, went to the platform to receive Rubinoff medallions from the violinist as winners in a music contest sponsored in the schools by the Lions club.

David Weimer, pianist, received first prize, and the second prize was divided between Norma Jean Hess, first violinist, and Patricia Hieber, cellist. The trio had played solo numbers for the violinist during the afternoon after being named by the following school music instructors, J. Merton Holcombe, A. Lemoine Derr, and S. K. Jorgenson. Alvin Fankhouser, Lions club president, presented the students to the audience.

Lions club members today said approximately 1,200 attended the two concerts. While the ticket sale was not as large as was anticipated, club officials said that until all expenses are figured, they will be unable to determine the amount realized for the club's blind relief fund.

CONVICTED IN POKER ROBBERY

Confessed Card Sharp Gets 10 To 25 Years In Prison.

WAPAKONETA —(U.P.)— A poker game in a Lima hotel room four years ago led to the sentencing of George Hartridge, 32, of Kansas City, who described himself as "a card sharp who has toured the country for eight years looking for suckers."

Hartridge today was under sentence of 10 to 25 years imprisonment on a conviction for robbing Albert Gerstner, a farmer.

Gerstner charged that after the poker game Hartridge induced him to come to Wapakoneta to borrow $2,000 so they could resume the game. He said Hartridge took the money and forced him out of an automobile.

Speedy Justice Sends Confessed Attacker to Pen

SPRINGFIELD —(INS)— A record for speedy justice was established in Springfield today as Raymond O. Doss, 44, Springfield millwright, was indicted, arraigned, sentenced and transported to Ohio penitentiary at Columbus all within the space of a few hours.

Doss confessed after 11 hours continuous questioning that he had assaulted an Enon high school girl four times after forcing her into his car on Oct. 22, according to Prosecutor Jerome A. Nevius.

Judge Golden C. Davis then called a special grand jury into session, which began deliberations at 1:30 p. m., heard three witnesses, and returned an indictment charging kidnaping with intent to rape at 2:40 p. m.

Doss was arraigned immediately on the indictment before Judge Davis, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to the maximum five-to-30-year term for his crime. He was transported to Ohio penitentiary last evening by Sheriff Niles E. Young.

FIRST STATION

Bellville Fire Department Is Equipped For First Aid.

Bellville fire station became a Red Cross emergency first aid station today upon completion of the standard and advanced first aid training courses by Bellville firemen and the installation of first aid equipment.

This is the tenth emergency station established in the county by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross and the first station to be established at a fire house. Increased traffic over secondary roads has accentuated the need for emergency stations, according to Bernard C. Hardy, first aid director of the chapter.

The Bellville station was equipped today with a 24-unit first aid kit, traction splints, blankets, the army type of stretcher and a directory giving ambulance and hospital locations for use in highway accidents.

Another emergency station will be opened next month at Mansfield airport when flyers and staff personnel complete their first aid training now being conducted by Hardy.

BAY DEEPENED

QUONSET POINT, R. I.—(U.P.)—By the time the new naval airbase is dedicated here this summer, engineers will have dredged about 12,000,000 yards of sand and mud out of Narragansett bay to make the channel suitable for warships.

SOMETHING NEW in electric shavers

COME IN AND SEE THE REMARKABLE NEW

Sunbeam SHAVEMASTER

CLOSER! FASTER! EASIER!

Free

Shavemaster Users!

Bring your Shavemaster to our store. A trained factory expert will hone absolutely free and without any obligation any Shavemaster brought in during the demonstration, using the same exclusive Sunbeam self-sharpening compound used by the factory to hone-in new comb-and-cutter sets. It will bring your Shavemaster to peak efficiency in a hurry. It's something new by Shavemaster, the only electric dry shaver that can be kept 100% sharp for only a few cents a year.

Factory-Trained Expert on Floor to explain dry shaving

We have made arrangements with the manufacturers of the famous Sunbeam Shavemaster to have a factory-trained expert in our store all day Friday and Saturday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. He is here to prove to your satisfaction that you can shave faster and closer with the new Shavemaster, than you can with a straight-edge or safety razor. If you have always wanted an electric shaver, but were not sure that you could use one, come in and talk with this factory representative. Watch him demonstrate this remarkable instrument on all types of beards. Only Sunbeam Shavemaster has the exclusive single head that has made so many friends, and kept them. One GOOD head is best . . . and Shavemaster has it! Come in anytime Friday or Saturday!

THEATERS

Sizzling Drama.

Clark Gable and Lana Turner bring a new romantic team to the screen for the first time in 'Honky Tonk," a rip-snorting story of a western gold camp, opening Saturday at the Ohio. Gable has the role of an ingratiating card sharp with political ambitions and Miss Turner plays the prim Boston teacher unable to withstand his charms. Run out of one camp into another Gable as "Candy Johnson," finally starts fighting for the state's highest political office and he is aided in the battle by Chill Wills, who gets his first big part in this production. Frank Morgan, Marjorie Main and Albert Dekker are in the cast.

Skelton Stars.

Red Skelton, known personally to Mansfielders, is the star of "Whistling in the Dark," comedy-thriller, opening Saturday at the Madison. The comical Skelton who has played throughout the country in every branch of show business has the leading role as a radio "Crime Creator," who is abducted by a group of racketeers operating a mysterious cult. Ann Rutherford, Virginia Grey, Eve Arden and Don Douglas are in the cast. Charles Boyer's "Hold Back the Dawn," furnishes the high-powered drama on the double bill. Boyer plays an European scoundrel who evades immigration officials in this country and marries an unsuspecting school teacher for safety. Olivia deHavilland and Paulette Goddard are in the cast.

Thundering Western.

Thundering action is again provided by William Boyd in his new "Hopalong Cassidy" picture, "Wide Open Town," playing at the Ritz. Setting out to bring law and order to a frontier community run by a gang of cut-throats Boyd confronts the feminine menace who controls the gang. Evelyn Brent plays the role and Andy Clyde is cast as Boyd's henchman. Victor Jory is also cast. "Charlie Chan in Rio," the co-feature, presents the Oriental sleuth, enacted by Sidney Toler, in a new murder mystery. Mary Beth Hughes has the chief feminine role.

Rollicking Comedy.

The whacky story of a girl who just couldn't say "no" to a proposal of marriage gives Ginger Rogers a rollicking role in "Tom, Dick and Harry," beginning Friday at the Park. Socialite, garage mechanic and super-salesman are on her list but its the latter who wins out in the end. Alan Marshall plays the socialite, Burgess Meredith, the mechanic, and George Murphy, the salesman. "The Great Train Robbery," the second picture, deals with the life and death struggle between two brothers, one of them good and one of them bad. Bob Steele and Milburn Stone carry the leading roles.

Picturesque Thriller.

"The Bad Man," adventure story of the cattle country, with Wallace Beery in the title role, is playing at the Majestic. Beery enacts Pancho Lopez, a Robin Hood of the plains, who applies bandit tactics to straighten out the lives of a group of "tenderfeet" with dramatic results. Lionel Barrymore appears as a grizzled rancher who isn't afraid of the bandit and the cast includes Ronald Reagan. "The People vs. Dr. Kildare," the latest Lew Ayres-Lionel Barrymore episode and second feature, revolves around a mal-practice suit.

FORTY ET EIGHT PLANNING EVENT

Will Combine Installation With Dinner-Dance, Nov. 3.

Plans to combine installation ceremonies with a "ladies' night" dinner-dance, Monday, Nov. 3, were being made today by the retiring officers of Voiture No. 20, Forty et Eight.

R. F. Leemhuis of Elyria, past grand chef de gare, will be here to conduct installation ceremonies at the American Legion home and other state officers will be among the 100 persons expected to attend.

Dinner will be served at 6 p. m. and installation will follow, according to Thane F. Shaw, retiring chef de gare, who will be succeeded in office by Fred Roth.

DRIVE OPENED

Eagles Divided Into 'Armies' For Member Campaign.

The Eagles lodge membership team headed by Harry Boyer is leading in the contest for new members, officers of the lodge said today.

Four teams, or "armies," are entered in the contest which is expected to produce 500 new lodge members by Dec. 1. Boyer heads the drive in the north section of the city. James Wigton is leading the campaign in the south side of Mansfield, Robert Dickerson in the west side, and John Knapp in the east side.

A part of the new members will be initiated at district ceremonies Sunday at the lodge hall on North Main street.

National and state representatives of the Eagles are expected to attend the ceremonies which lodge officials predict will bring nearly 1,000 Eagles to the city from Richland, Ashland, Crawford, and Morrow counties.

DROP IN FATALITIES

CHICAGO—(INS)—Traffic fatality rates in 24 American cities which have reorganized their police forces since 1936 have dropped off an average of 33.3 per cent, the International Association of Chiefs of Police reported. Chattanooga, Tenn., led the list with a decrease of 82.4 per cent.

YUGOSLAVIANS CONTINUE WAR DESPITE DEATHS

100,000 Estimated Executions Fail To Halt Steady Guerilla Fighting.

(Editor's Note: Following is an article on conditions in Yugoslavia, another in a series reviewing the status of Axis-occupied countries.)

By MERRILL MUELLER
(By International News Service)

LONDON—Nearly 100,000 Yugoslav patriots already have been executed, murdered or massacred. Another 100,000 have been thrown into concentration camps.

But despite these extreme repressive measures, rebellious Serbian and Croat guerillas have been able to inflict at least 6,000 casualties on their German, Italian and Ustachi overlords, the free Yugoslavian government asserted today in an exhaustive resume of the bloody purges and open warfare now raging in that country.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, quoting figures from the Serbian orthodox church, says that more than 180,000 Serbs alone have been massacred in Yugoslavia.

This appalling figure the free government does not confirm. However, an official spokesman said that conditions in so-called independent Crotia under Italian-tutored Ante Paveltich, the Ustachi chieftain, parallel those in German areas under General Constatin Neditch.

The result, he said, that guerilla bands operating in the mountains and forests are made up of both Croat and Serbian patriots, fighting together to sabotage the invaders with a new national unity.

"Latest reports indicate that Pavelitch has been forced to purge a good number of his dissatisfied Ustachi leaders," he said.

"Pavelitch himself now is in such fear of his life that he has double his bodyguard. He has sent his wife back to Italy.

"Italy is greatly displeased over his failure to organize the new Croatian state sufficiently to permit the Duke of Spoleto to ascend his new throne. It is no fable that the Germans on four occasions have asked Matchek (Dr. Vladimir Matchek, Croat agrarian leader), to reconsider his first refusal to organize the Croat government with their support."

The Axis is clearly divided on the question of Croat administration, he said, more so that the Italians, after withdrawing from the interior because of repeated uprisings, have taken over several free cordidors along the coast.

"The Italians lost at least 1,000 men in fighting in Montenegro lately," the spokesman continued, "and seven of the Italian appointees to the skupshtina (parliament) have been assassinated.

"Nearly 1,000,000 peasants living in Bosnia, Herzogovina and Crotia recently migrated en masse to Servia. This represented an Axis effort to clear up rebellion in those areas. It failed.

"Efforts to raise a Croat legion to aid Hitler against Russia led to open mutiny among Croatian troops at Varazdia, and 60 of them were shot.

"Guerilla raiders are concentrating their activities against railway lines and destruction of Axis agents and sentries, all of which comprise signs of increasing rebellion throughout the country.

"Russia's fierce resistance to the Nazi invasion is inspiring her Slav brothers."

Madison Rams Swamp Bellville In County Battle 47-7

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Spring is just around the corner.

I haven't seen the first robin, nor yet the last one, but let me be the first to report the things of spring are on the wing. I have evidence, even though the snow is yet to fall, and the coal pile is not yet a problem, and the winter's ashes haven't been hauled away.

Prexy Joe Donnelly has finally gotten around to calling a meeting of the Ohio State baseball league for Monday night at Fremont.

Prexy Joe was supposed to have called the session for the latter part of September while summer breezes were still stirring the roses and the golden rod, and hay fever wasn't just a memory.

So now, instead of being a farewell to summer, Prexy Joe's call comes late enough to be a harbinger of spring.

In spite of all this pep talk, I am unable to chirp up a spring roundelay. I just ain't in the mood.

Funny thing. Although the Ohio State league moguls should be worrying, or at least wondering, if there will be a league next summer, some are still bickering over petty grievances of last summer.

From one city, which may not even have a team next season, comes a call for all to rally round and kick Donnelly out of office because of the poor umpiring, and because Joe had a job which wouldn't permit him to be in a league ball park every night of the summer.

Whether they want it or not, the owners of the Mansfield ball club retain their franchise for next season. From the last batch of checks clearing Judge Bramham's office, the judge thoughtfully extracted the $30 necessary to hold the franchise for Mansfield.

Now all the Braves have to do is find out if there's going to be a league, deposit $600 more with Bramham in two installments, find a place to play, and put together a ball club. Just as simple as that.

* * *

Those former Mansfield Braves, Steve Gromek and Hank Edwards, each collected $64.78 as their short share of the Cleveland Indians' split in the world series take. Not much, but better than a boot in the breeches.

Mansfield Battles Central

Tygers Have Advantage of Eight Pounds Per Man.

A WEEK of practice on aerial defense appeared washed out today for Mansfield high's undefeated Tygers as the city was enveloped in a drizzling rain.

Coach Paul Snyder's plans for an overhead offensive against Cleveland Central tonight at Stadium field may be sidetracked by a wet ball and sloppy going. But the Tygers should feel at home in the mud. Their ground attack has clicked consistently in that kind of footing in previous games.

Mansfield will have a weight advantege of eight pounds per man in the starting lineups tonight, averaging 169 against 161 for Central.

The Cleveland team will be the first one the Tygers have met this fall that falls below the 1,800 pound total in the starting lineup, coming in at 1,777 pounds against Mansfield's 1,855.

Central's record for the season is far from impressive, listing five defeats in as many starts, and a total score of two points against 168 for the opposition.

Cleveland John Adams whipped Central 40 to 0 in the opener, and then Cathedral Latin plastered a 60 to 0 defeat on the Cedar avenue boys. Scores in the next three games were more respectable as Central lost to Benedictine 24 to 0, John Hay 25 to 0, and Conneaut 19 to 2.

Compared with Mansfield's victory record of 40 to 0 over Akron West, 39 to 0 over Elyria, 32 to 0 over Sandusky, 31 to 0 over Newark, and 41 to 0 over Springfield, and its 6 to 6 tie with mighty Massillon, Central doesn't appear to be in the same league with the Tygers.

Coach Paul Snyder isn't kidding when he says he fears a letdown on the part of his Tygers tonight. The setup is ideal for an upset.

Three changes are planned in the regular starting lineup of the Tygers because of injuries. Chuck Condon will start at Adam Brandt's fullback post, Jim Burrage will replace Joe Romano at left end, and John Butler will fill in for Bill Pecht at tackle.

Officials for tonight's game will be Fred McClintock of Fremont, former Ashland college star and coach at Loudonville and Galion, Don Welsh of Wooster, who worked the Springfield game, and Sid Jenkins of Denison.

Zivic Fights Ray Robinson

Coffee and Cakes Mit Pusher In the Chips.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—For a guy who did his stuff for coffee and cakes for nine years—and who may be on the way back to that league right this minute—Fritzie Zivic is certainly doing great with the fistic caviar during his stay on Bash Boulevard's big corner.

Until he came along to chase Henry Armstrong out of the picture a year ago, the gag man of the Five Flying Zivics of Pittsburgh never had collected more than $2,500 for a fight. Then he and the great Hennery played a return engagement before a Madison Square Garden record crowd of 23,000 fans, who chipped in to a pot of $78,000.

And at 10 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight, Fearless Fritzie comes back to the Garden against Ray Robinson, Harlem's hammering beanpole, in a 10-rounder that Promoter Mike Jacobs says flatly has all the earmarks of a sellout.

So even if Fritzie loses, he can't say he's going back to the bushes with peanuts.

Until late yesterday, the gambling gentlemen were telling you that Zivic was 8 to 5 to get a good country going-over by the skinny socker who has flattened 20 of the 25 straight candidates willing to stand up and let him bang at them. However, overnight the 49th Street commissioners have smartened up, as we say in the Jacobs Beach set, and this morning Robinson was a mere 10 to 11 in the betting.

This writer, who during the past nine months has watched Fritzie look alternately as hot as a fat man in August and as chilled as boarding house coffee, tabs Robinson the winner this time.

Rummels Beat Loop Leaders

Yuncker, Henrich, and Aungst Lead Scorers.

The Commercial "B" league-leading Jones Chris-Krafts were handed two setbacks last night by the Kent Rummel Coals, but continue to pace the loop with a three-game margin over the Coals, Mansfield Printing and M. & M. Service, tied for second place.

Leo Yuncker set the scoring pace for the league with a 610 total on games of 194-184-232. Close behind him was Ed Henrich with 606 and high game of 247 in a string of strikes broken only by two spares. Aungst hit exactly 600, falling to 157 between games of 221 and 222.

Shelby Seeks Fifth Victory

Meet Undefeated Jackets In N. C. O. League Tilt.

SHELBY—Shelby Whippets will be seeking their fifth win out of seven games tonight at Mt. Vernon. The Whippets have won two and lost one in North Central Ohio league competition. The Yellow Jackets are undefeated but have a tie with Mario to mar their record.

Shelby's eleven will be weakened by the loss of Bob Ernsberger, star pass receiver, who is in the hospital following an appendicitis operation. George York, varsity fullback, will be handicapped with a stiff knee.

Otherwise the Whippets are expected to be in top condition for the game. Mt. Vernon is favored over the visiting eleven by virtue of holding Marion to a tie. Marion defeated Ashland by two touchdowns, while Ashland defeated the Whippets by three touchdowns.

BOOK BIVINS FIGHT

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Melio Bettina, of New York, former light heavyweight titleholder, has been signed to meet Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins in a 10-round bout at the Arena Nov. 11.

Bucks Leave For Pitt Tilt

Burgett To Take Graf's Fullback Spot In Game.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's football squad headed for Pittsburgh today, hoping the train ride would lead to as much success as did the recent journey westward in which the Buckeyes trounced Southern California 33 to 0.

The Bucks never before had won on the west coast; neither have they won in the Pitt Panther's stadium.

Coach Paul E. Brown, bidding for his fourth victory in five starts, took 37 players on the Pittsburgh invasion.

Jack Graf, plunging fullback, still will be on the bench as he was last Saturday when the Bucks absorbed a 14 to 7 defeat by Northwestern. Dick Burgett will start as fullback.

Leon Schoenbaum, nursing a touchy ankle injured in the Northwestern tilt, probably will start at left end as the replacement for Charley Anderson, who was dismissed from the squad this week.

Word from Pittsburgh was that the drastic backfield shakeup following last week's loss to Duke would send four former second stringers into the starting lineup against Ohio State.

Northwestern, Gophers Play

Minnesota Dropped to Even Money By Injuries.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(AP)—The bellwether of Minnesota's offense, Capt. Bruce Smith, won't start tomorrow's big gridiron battle with Northwestern's title-eyeing Wildcats—but he'll see plenty of action in an engagement expected to draft the biggest crowd in Gopher history into Memorial stadium.

This information, the most cheerful bit of news to come from Minnesota's big casualty ward all week, was a development which came after Minnesota's workout today.

Smith, who has done nothing all week but jog around after taking heat treatments for a knee twisted against Michigan, said the member had "loosened" up and felt much better.

Doubt whether Smith will be able to stand much rough going and the absence of Hedge Pukema, injured guard, have dropped the western conference champions from their favorite's role into an even-money choice with the invaders. Northwestern's backfield strength—centered around Bill De Correvont and Otto Graham—has made the Wildcats the choice of many observers to knock the Gophers out of the undefeated and untied class.

Mansfield Enters State Contest

DELAWARE — (U.P.) — Fifteen schools headed by Springfield, the defending champion, have entered runners in the annual state high school cross country meet at Ohio Wesleyan tomorrow.

Bill Bartlett of Lakewood enters the meet with best time of the individual winners in district meets with a mark of 10:24.4. Second best district time was established by Elmer Bellar of Springfield, 10:43.5 and third by Jerome Nehus, Cincinnati Hughes, 12:20.8.

Besides Springfield, the following schools have entered competitors: Akron North, Akron South, Cleveland West, Cleveland Collinwood, Cleveland Rhodes, Fremont, Mansfield, Lakewood, Toledo Libbey, Cincinnati Hughes, Cincinnati Walnut Hills, Enon, Circleville and Marble Furnace.

Touchdown on First Kickoff Called Back

Hammer, Windsor and Anthony Run Wild Against Blue Jays

By BUD SPRINGER, News-Journal Sports Writer.

MADISON threw everything including the freshman team at Bellville last night on the Ram field to win 47-7.

Behind the flashy running of Harold Hammer, Ken Windsor and Bob Anthony the Rams scored early and late and were able to bottle up Bellville's fine runner, George Dill, behind the line during the entire evening.

After the opening kickoff run for a touchdown was called back by the officials to the 32. Hammer galloped to the 48 where Willy Wynn added 11 more taking it to the Blue Jay 42. After a five-yard plunge Hammer threw to Windsor who went over for the first score.

Hammer's pass to Jack Fletcher was good for the point after touchdown.

After the kickoff Bellville made its only convincing threat of the evening. Taking a Madison punt on his 25, Dill moved to the 40. Three plays later Dill again broke loose for a first on the Rams 45. After two more plunges Raymond Baldwin made another first down on the Ram 35 and Dill took it to the 23.

Here the threat ended as Hammer batted a pass to Roberts who intercepted and carried to the 38.

As the second quarter started Hammer and Anthony made two first downs bringing the ball to their own 40 and there Windsor reversed to Hammer who went to the Blue Jay 20. On the next play Windsor scored. Hammer plunged for the conversion.

Still in the second quarter, Anthony took the ball on fourth down on his own 49 and plunged through the center of the Bellville line to the Blue Jay 29. Hammer went to the 11 and Windsor went over. Anthony plunged for the conversion.

After a half time rest during which the Madison queen was presented and bands from both schools marched, the Rams added 19 more points in the third quarter.

Hammer and Anthony took turns for a touchdown march of 60 yards. Then on the first play after the kickoff Max Roberts intercepted a Bellville pass on the Bellville 35 and ran over for another tally.

The last score in the third quarter resulted from a Bellville fumble recovered by Eletcher on the Blue 25. From there Roberts and Windsor made it first on the 11 and Anthony poured on another first on the one. A lateral, Hammer to Anthony, scored and Windsor kicked the extra point.

Madison's last score came in the last quarter on a 90 yard march.

Anthony ran back a kick to his own 10. Windsor then made it first on the 21. Two plays later Anthony got loose to the 45 and from there Paul Wynn took an end around play to the Bellville 20 where he was caught from behind. Hammer lateraled to Anthony for a first on the nine and four plays later Anthony scored. Willy Wynn ran for the conversion.

At this point, having exhausted his regular supply of reserves, Coach Al Fendrick sent the Ram freshman team into the game and a Bellville pass, Dave Myers to Dill, netted the only Bellville tallies.

During the evening Madison gathered in 18 first downs to Bellville's seven, gained 452 yards from scrimmage to Bellville's 174 and completed one pass to Bellville's zero.

* * *

Big Blue Jay problem seemed to be blocking. On the defense they were for the most part able to stop the Rams from sweeping the ends, but on their own end runs they continually left Dill out in the flat with three or four Madison tacklers smearing the fast and hard running back.

18 OF 51 GET O. K. IN DRAFT PHYSICAL EXAM

Average of Approvals Higher But Still Fall Below Earlier Reports.

Eighteen of 51 Richland county selective service registrants' examined Thursday at the Mansfield Armory met the army's physical qualifications and were placed in the 1-A classification for induction next month.

The average of approvals was 35 per cent, slightly higher than figures for the past two weeks but still below the early examination reports last winter.

Board 3, which has had a difficult time getting enough men approved by the physicians and dentists to meet its quotas for November, sent 40 of the 51 registrants to the Armory for physical check-ups. Of the 40 men, only 15 were approved.

Board 1 sent 10 to the Armory and received approval of two. Board 2 had only one man in the group and he passed the examination.

Board clerks said at least one more examination session would be conducted here before the new centralized examination plan goes into effect Nov. 21. The remaining session here probably will be next Tuesday.

Under the new plan, registrants will go directly to the Fort Hayes induction station in Columbus for their only physical examination. They are required to take two now, one in Mansfield and the other in Columbus.

DIFFERENT
Imagine one whole end of your living room in glass. Sit anywhere in it and be able to look two miles over beautiful hills. This is only one new feature in our new bungalows on Reform St. being finished now. See them today. Low prices cannot be maintained. Building may be held up. This means higher prices. Buy now—later there may be no new homes at any price.
R. M. BUSHNELL — 4699-1

This Home Pleases the Eye, the Price Pleases the Pocketbook
When we tell you that this attractive home can be purchased for only $5,000, its value will speak for itself. Located corner of Wood and Ohio streets, has six lovely large rooms, all modern, including an extra toilet, handwood floors throughout, floored attic and fireplace, fair sized lot and double garage. Will require approximately $2,000 cash, balance by securing first mortgage.

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

GROWERS TO TOUR

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—New York state fruit growers visited Maryland and Virginia this summer to see how fruit is grown in other sections of the country and to learn of federal experiments under way. The group made stops at the federal experiment station at Beltsville, Md., and the Shenandoah-Cumberland fruit section in Virginia.

Antarctica had a climate similar to California's about a hundred million years ago.

MAGGIE IS COMING IN THE OFFICE TODAY—I'LL PUT THIS PICTURE ON SIR VON PLATTER'S DESK—WHEN SHE SEES THIS—SHE'LL THINK HE'S CRAZY ABOUT THE GIRLS AN' SHE'LL INSIST ON ME FIRIN' HIM—WHICH WILL BE A PLEASURE—I'LL WAIT ACROSS THE STREET AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS—
HERE COMES MAGGIE OUT OF THE BUILDIN'—IS SHE MAD? NOW TO GO BACK IN ME OFFICE TO SEE WHAT HAPPENED—
WELL—ANY NEWS?
NO—ONLY SOMEONE PUT A PICTURE OF A BEAUTIFUL GIRL ON MY DESK—BUT FOR THE LIFE OF ME—I COULDN'T THINK OF ANYONE THAT I KNOW THAT LOOKS LIKE THAT—SO I THOUGHT IT MUST BE FOR YOU—
-SO I PUT IT ON YOUR DESK—AND BY THE WAY—YOUR WIFE SAW IT THERE—AND DO YOU KNOW? I THINK SHE IS ANGRY—

STOCK LEADERS DROP SLIGHTLY ON WAR NEWS

Report of Destroyer Sinking Dims Speculation; Retail Spending Increased.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market found little recovery inspiration in the news today and leading issues generally followed a slightly lower course.

Bethlehem Steel opened on a block of 1,000 shares, off 1¼, but later shared this decline.

Backward in early transactions were Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Kennecott, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse and Owens-Illinois.

Steadying inclinations were shown by U. S. Steel, Texas Corp., Phelps Dodge and Johns-Manville.

Sinking of an American destroyer off Iceland dimmed speculative sentiment to some extent, brokers said, but apparently touched off no real liquidation.

Helpful was the Dun and Bradstreet survey estimating this week's retail spending for the country as a whole topped the like period a year ago by 10 to 16 per cent.

The federal reserve board confirmed the return of merchandising equilibrium by estimating the nation's department store sales in the week ended Oct. 25 at 8 per cent above the same time last year. In the preceding week the year-to-year increase was 6 per cent.

TWENTY DIE IN NEW AIRLINE PLANE CRASH

Transport Falls Into Field Near St. Thomas, Ont., Bursts Into Flames.

plane near Moorhead, Minn., the day was the most disastrous in loss of life of any in the history of American commercial aviation.

Visibility was poor when the plane, on its course, crashed at about 10:30 p. m. EST on the farm of Thompson Howe at Lawrence Station. It was due at Detroit at 10:17 p. m. on the run from Buffalo.

When the plane struck, there was one big explosion followed by a series of smaller ones. Flaming gasoline gushed out.

Before Howe could reach it, several hundred yards from his house, it was engulfed in flames. Farmers, provincial police from St. Thomas and officers from the Royal Canadian Air Force school at nearby Fingal, who arrived quickly, were powerless to aid.

Lewis Biddle, a Lawrence Station storekeeper who was one of the first at the scene, said three bodies tumbled outside but the flames roared up with the impact of the crash and they were burned before they could be reached.

The 17 passengers and three crew members were:

Passengers:

Robert Flowers, Hastings, N. Y.

Edward Bigda, 24, Bridgeport, Conn., an aircraft inspector of the Vought-Sikorsky division of the United Aircraft corporation.

A. L. Lewis, Bridgeport, on the Vought-Sikorsky engineering department.

John Kay, La Porte, Ind.

E. J. Benwz, Ann Arbor, Mich.

E. J. Watt, Pratt Whitney company, Royal Oak, Mich.

Thomas A. Fraser, American Brass company, Detroit, Mich.

V. R. Conzett, American Brass company, Detroit.

G. S. Van Norman, American Brass company.

E. M. Scott, Royal Oak, Mich., of the United Motors Service, Detroit.

F. R. Root, Ypsilanti, Mich., of Stinson Aircraft.

Frank A. Fisher, Detroit, accountant for Arthur Anderson & Co.

Frank Snyder, 34, Buffalo, international representative of the CIO United Automobile Workers.

George E. Russell, 45, Niagara Falls, N. Y., sales promotion manager of the Gilman Fanfold corporation.

James George, Buffalo.

D. E. Stone, Eddy Paper company, Three Rivers, Mich.

Joseph Brown, Detroit.

Crew members:

Capt. David I. Cooper, 34, of Plandome, N. Y.

First Officer R. L. Owens, 30, New York City.

Stewardess Mary E. Blackley, 27, New York City.

Biddle said a light showed in the murky sky before the crash, indicating that the pilot had dropped a flare in an effort to find a landing spot. The plane circled around, he said, then skimmed the ground and shot up, only to sideslip and crash.

Its nose was buried in the ground, and debris was strewn in an area within a radius of 200 feet or more. The left wing was only partly destroyed but the right wing was smashed to bits.

The fire still was burning more than an hour after the crash when a bucket brigade of farmers, getting water from nearby pumps, were able to start extinguishing it.

Meanwhile at Moorhead investigators seeking to find the cause of the crash of a Northwest Airlines plane early yesterday in which 14 persons were killed today awaited more complete recovery of the ship's captain, 41-year-old Clarence Bates, the only survivor.

Physicians last night forbade questioning of Bates, and planned to allow him the fullest possible recovery before he is questioned. It was thought he would be able to talk late today. Bates apparently suffered only from shock and bruises when he was thrown from the cockpit when the ship fell to earth and burst into flames.

VOTE FOR THE TAX LEVY

With present equipment a fire in one of our large industrial plants might result in complete loss of plant machinery, with resulting loss of jobs and payroll. Such loss would affect the incomes of practically every citizen. In the event that the factory were not rebuilt in Mansfield the loss would be irreparable and all real estate would suffer a shrinkage in value. Therefore, every property owner should VOTE FOR THE TAX LEVY.
